

Holloway to Speak
Annapolis, Md., May 20 (AP). Rear Admiral James L. Holloway, jr., Naval Academy superintendent, will address Severn School graduates at commencement exercises Thursday afternoon. Many future midshipmen train at the Severn institution.

NOW more than ever
YOUR BEST BUY!

CANADA DRY WATER with PIN-POINT CARBONATION

Today, you pay no more for Canada Dry Water than most ordinary club sodas... carbonated tap waters. So be sure of drinks that taste better, sparkle longer. Insist on Canada Dry Water, always. Here's why:

1. Pin-Point Carbonation
2. Exclusive Formula
3. Special Processing
4. Uniform Quality

IN THE CENTER OF NEW YORK
600 ROOMS
EACH with BATH, RADIO
FROM $3.00 SINGLE
FROM $4.50 DOUBLE
FAMOUS for FINE FOOD, SPA
CIOUS SUNNY ROOMS, SERVICE, FRIENDLINESS and CONVENIENCE

U. S. Has No Plans For Civil Defense

Yet Homeland Cannot Escape Attack If War Should Come, Military Men Say

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

(Last of a Series of America's Defenses Today)

America—alone among the major powers—has had no first-hand experience with enemy bombers. No planes or V-2s have devastated our cities and put our civilian population in the front lines. Fortunately, the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans have kept us safe.

And—apparently having to learn everything the hard way—America today is the only great nation without concrete plans for civil defense in a future war.

Yet, if war comes, the United States on our homeland. The broad oceans are no longer sure barriers against destruction.

Facts May Shock Some
Military men are agreed upon this and only the blindest of isolationists among civilians disbelieve it. It may come of something of a shock to many, therefore, to learn how neglectful of civilian defense we are. The facts are:

The war-time Office of Civil Defense—established by executive order under the President's war powers—no longer exists.

No agency has been set up to take its place, even as a purely planning group.

No existing Government department has responsibility for civil defense in case of war.

There is no law on the statute books covering the subject, nor official plan dealing with it in existence.

Can't Order Civilian Action
Army chiefs have given the matter some study. Under the Constitution, the War Department does have general responsibility for defense of the Nation. But the Army has no authority to tell civilian officials—whether Federal, State or municipal—what to do in the field of civil defense, either as to peace-time planning or war-time operations.

Only if martial law were declared by the President could troops move in and take charge.

A special War Department board, headed by Maj. Gen. Harold R. Bull, investigated the subject last session. They submitted its report about three months ago. It was not made public and Army officials will not discuss its recommendations.

Here Are Conclusions
Americans, in and out of the Government, who have studied the

PROVES WONDERFUL FOR ITCHY SKIN
Zemo—a Doctor's formula yet highly medicated liquid promptly relieves itch of skin irritations due to external cause. Also aids healing ZEMO

HEAR HENRY A. WALLACE TONIGHT 8:30-8:45
WOL 1260 ON DIAL
Speaking to 27,000 People at a Meeting of PROGRESSIVE CITIZENS OF AMERICA

DAYTON CHICAGO LOS ANGELES
See your travel agent or phone
REpublic 5400
or visit TWA ticket office at 745 15th Street N. W.
Save time with TWA AIRFREIGHT
TWA
Trans World Airline

Hotel VICTORIA
7th Ave. at 51st St., New York
"Where Radio, City Music, Times Square"
P. J. Murphy, General Manager

CINDER BLOCK and WAYLITE BLOCK
ALL SIZES
IMMEDIATE DELIVERY
BY RAIL OR TRUCK
Allied Cinder Block Corp.
Box 701, Harrisonburg, Va. Phone 1504

TAX—From Page 1

Agriculture Funds Face Cut Of 350 Millions in House Bill programs as nearer half a billion dollars.

Cuts were said to include a 125-million-dollar dent in the AAA program. This would virtually halve AAA benefit payments in the next fiscal year. Total elimination of the payments in 1949 were tentatively provided.

Rural Electrification Funds were reported cutback 25 million dollars, in addition to heavy cuts in farm tenancy and crop insurance programs.

So called "Section 32" funds, which have been used in the past for farm programs, would revert to the Treasury. These funds, totaling about 145 million dollars, represent 30 per cent of gross receipts from customs collections earmarked in the past for agriculture.

Taxes Ban New Industry, Col. McCormick Says
Philadelphia, May 21 (AP)—Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune said today that under existing tax laws "there can be no new industries" and "no new instruments will ever be produced."

In an address prepared for the Pennsylvania Commandery, Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, Colonel McCormick said that "under our present taxation any man discovering, inventing, or producing novelties comparable to the steel plow, the electric light, the sewing machine, or the Ford car, will never be able to put them into production because the earnings with which he would develop the facilities to manufacture on a sufficient scale to serve the entire public, will be taken away from him."

Woman's Sentence In Slaying Commuted
Rome, May 21 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee, acting supreme Allied commander in the Mediteranean, today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Maria Pasquinelli, who assassinated British Brigadier Robert De Winton in Pola February 10.

The Allies granted mercy to the 35-year-old Italian woman to keep her from the martyrdom she wanted, it was explained. At the time she shot De Winton to death she declared it was "to dramatize for the world the injustice of the Italian peace treaty."

Coordination Needed
Greatest present need of American national defense is coordination of our foreign policy and our military policy, and reorganization of the armed services to meet the needs of the future.

Basic laws governing the military and naval forces were written years ago. When the war officially ends, the Army Air Forces and Army Ground Forces will cease to exist. We'll go back to an Army consisting of an Infantry, Coast Artillery, Cavalry, Air Corps, etc.

Due to the general apathy about things military, a small minority in Congress threatens to block passage of the Army-Navy unification bill—keystone of the entire modernization program. Until it is voted up or down, no comprehensive planning is possible.

Top defense chiefs are not so much concerned with individual cuts made in various phases of their budgets, as the long-range picture and the general attitude of the American public. Few members of Congress seem to be concerned about what has been called "our posture before the world."

Might Have Peace Now
Oth's Nations, however, are most conscious of it. Many Army-Navy officials believe, for example, that if the Government had not yielded so completely to the demobilization clamor, we might have a peace treaty today. If we had remained partially mobilized, a different attitude would have prevailed at UN meetings and foreign minister conferences, they declared.

However that may be, it is evident that Soviet officials are very conscious of America's armed readiness. One Russian delegate to the super-secret United Nations Military Committee told an American general:

"You talk of being demobilized. Yet I see by your newspapers that you have 400 B-29 bombers stored down in your State of New Mexico. Their crews have been demobilized, yes, but you can blow a whistle and bring them back. Three years from today those planes and their crews will be no good. Then you will be demobilized."

That was a year ago. Knowing all too well how long it takes to tool up, turn out quantities of new warplanes and train crews for them, American military men are concerned what our "posture" will be two years from now. He will Soviet chiefs act when they consider us fully demobilized?

JONES—From Page 1

Schoolboy Gets His New Hands

when Bob has joined his high school chums.

Trys Out Gift Automobile
One of those times was Sunday when Bob and Margaret joined another boy and girl from the high school on an auto trip in Bob's shiny, new Plymouth, purchased for him by contributions from his fellow townspeople.

"Bob had decided not to go out at all until the arms arrived, but they stayed out all day and then came over here for supper. And then they all went to the movies," Virginia reported, smiling.

Yesterday Margaret was in bed with a cold, but she said, determinedly, "That won't keep me from the prom. We'll be there."

Ever since the hands arrived, Bob has been practicing with them, dialing numbers on the telephone, picking up objects, shaking hands, cutting his food and writing with a pen.

"At first he wouldn't let anyone watch and he ate alone, but he's getting over it now," his mother said.

MAY—From Page 1

May Says Aid Was Routine

he has been on the stand, that he was just the Garsons' agent and never was paid for what he did.

During the years May was running the firm, the Garsons were putting more than $40,000 into it, May was pushing their business with the War Department and they were getting war orders that came to more than 78 million dollars.

"Lost $500" on Deals
Highlights of May's testimony yesterday were:

1. He claimed a huge balance sheet he brought to court accounted for every penny he got for the Garsons, and left him at least $509.31 in the red.

2. He denied putting pressure on the Army to get an "E" award for one Garson company, saying he did not know what an "E" was until 1945.

3. He declared his efforts to get a furlough for Albert Freeman, when he was overseas, were routine. That he did the same for scores of others and would be willing to do so again.

4. He claimed that the questions he asked the Army about the Garson contracts were authorized by three House resolutions providing for his committee to investigate war production.

$23,634 From Garsons
May's balance sheet was almost as big as a newspaper spread wide open. He said he made it up from check stubs, bank statements and other records of his four years as head man of the lumber company.

The sheet showed that between July 26, 1943, and July 7, 1945, the Garson money that went through May's hands came to $23,634.07. The Garsons paid another $11,000 for some timber land that May bought for the company, and the books of their firms showed still another $10,000 paid to Cumberland.

Having shown the $23,634.07 that came in to May, the sheet showed that the former Congressman paid it all out but $400.89. But May said this did not leave him that much ahead, because he bought a truck for the lumber company from H. L. Mayo, for $1000. Since he must pay this, he figured he lost $509.31 acting as agent for Cumberland. Besides the truck bill, May said he might be liable to the widow of a workman killed cutting timber. He figured this possible debt to be at least $2000 plus burial expenses, and as much more as a Kentucky jury might give the widow.

roulins. That he did the same for scores of others and would be willing to do so again.

4. He claimed that the questions he asked the Army about the Garson contracts were authorized by three House resolutions providing for his committee to investigate war production.

$23,634 From Garsons
May's balance sheet was almost as big as a newspaper spread wide open. He said he made it up from check stubs, bank statements and other records of his four years as head man of the lumber company.

The sheet showed that between July 26, 1943, and July 7, 1945, the Garson money that went through May's hands came to $23,634.07. The Garsons paid another $11,000 for some timber land that May bought for the company, and the books of their firms showed still another $10,000 paid to Cumberland.

Having shown the $23,634.07 that came in to May, the sheet showed that the former Congressman paid it all out but $400.89. But May said this did not leave him that much ahead, because he bought a truck for the lumber company from H. L. Mayo, for $1000. Since he must pay this, he figured he lost $509.31 acting as agent for Cumberland. Besides the truck bill, May said he might be liable to the widow of a workman killed cutting timber. He figured this possible debt to be at least $2000 plus burial expenses, and as much more as a Kentucky jury might give the widow.

roulins. That he did the same for scores of others and would be willing to do so again.

4. He claimed that the questions he asked the Army about the Garson contracts were authorized by three House resolutions providing for his committee to investigate war production.

$23,634 From Garsons
May's balance sheet was almost as big as a newspaper spread wide open. He said he made it up from check stubs, bank statements and other records of his four years as head man of the lumber company.

The sheet showed that between July 26, 1943, and July 7, 1945, the Garson money that went through May's hands came to $23,634.07. The Garsons paid another $11,000 for some timber land that May bought for the company, and the books of their firms showed still another $10,000 paid to Cumberland.

Having shown the $23,634.07 that came in to May, the sheet showed that the former Congressman paid it all out but $400.89. But May said this did not leave him that much ahead, because he bought a truck for the lumber company from H. L. Mayo, for $1000. Since he must pay this, he figured he lost $509.31 acting as agent for Cumberland. Besides the truck bill, May said he might be liable to the widow of a workman killed cutting timber. He figured this possible debt to be at least $2000 plus burial expenses, and as much more as a Kentucky jury might give the widow.

roulins. That he did the same for scores of others and would be willing to do so again.

4. He claimed that the questions he asked the Army about the Garson contracts were authorized by three House resolutions providing for his committee to investigate war production.

$23,634 From Garsons
May's balance sheet was almost as big as a newspaper spread wide open. He said he made it up from check stubs, bank statements and other records of his four years as head man of the lumber company.

The sheet showed that between July 26, 1943, and July 7, 1945, the Garson money that went through May's hands came to $23,634.07. The Garsons paid another $11,000 for some timber land that May bought for the company, and the books of their firms showed still another $10,000 paid to Cumberland.

Having shown the $23,634.07 that came in to May, the sheet showed that the former Congressman paid it all out but $400.89. But May said this did not leave him that much ahead, because he bought a truck for the lumber company from H. L. Mayo, for $1000. Since he must pay this, he figured he lost $509.31 acting as agent for Cumberland. Besides the truck bill, May said he might be liable to the widow of a workman killed cutting timber. He figured this possible debt to be at least $2000 plus burial expenses, and as much more as a Kentucky jury might give the widow.

roulins. That he did the same for scores of others and would be willing to do so again.

4. He claimed that the questions he asked the Army about the Garson contracts were authorized by three House resolutions providing for his committee to investigate war production.

$23,634 From Garsons
May's balance sheet was almost as big as a newspaper spread wide open. He said he made it up from check stubs, bank statements and other records of his four years as head man of the lumber company.

The sheet showed that between July 26, 1943, and July 7, 1945, the Garson money that went through May's hands came to $23,634.07. The Garsons paid another $11,000 for some timber land that May

THE TELEPHONE STRIKE IS SETTLED OUR BEST THANKS...

... to you and every other telephone user for your patience and cooperation during this emergency.

Now that it's over, we're all going back to work with a will—to make your telephone service even better, faster and more dependable than ever.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co.

Virginia News

State Revenues Up 43 Million in 10 Months
On Sharp Gains in Gas Tax, Liquor Sales

Richmond, Va., May 21 (AP).—State revenues from all sources of $209,514,000 during the first 10 months of the current fiscal year were announced today by State Comptroller Henry G. Gilmer.

Gilmer said the receipts compared with a total of $165,706,000 for the corresponding period last year and that much of the increase of $43,808,000 could be attributed to soaring receipts from the State gasoline tax and a sharp rise in ABC sales.

The comptroller declared that when revenues are totaled up at the end of this month, virtually every major source of State income will have surpassed its total income for the 1945-46 fiscal year.

General fund revenues, Gilmer said, were up to an unexpected height, amounting to $45,346,000 for the 10-month period. The general fund provides money for the operation of schools, health and welfare agencies, and other State government responsibilities.

Despite a 25 per cent drop in the price of auto licenses, Gilmer said receipts from license sales are $566,000 above the last fiscal year. The report showed that during the first 10 months of this year, the State has received $27,810,000 in Federal grants—more than double the $13,148,000 received in the same period last year.

'Posture Queen' Named

Fredericksburg, Va., May 21. Miss Frances Scanlon, 19-year-old sophomore from Harrison, Tenn., has been adjudged "posture queen" of Mary Washington College here. Second place went to Miss Virginia Britton of Manassas, Va. The contestants were selected by the Athletic Recreation Association and class presidents. Faculty members were the judges.

Loudoun School Hearing

Leesburg, Va., May 21.—The Loudoun County School Board will conduct a public hearing in the Leesburg High School auditorium at 8 p. m., Thursday, May 29. The subject to be discussed will be "The Future of Our High Schools." This hearing is the outcome of proposals to consolidate Loudoun's high schools.

Rumpus Over Grass

Richmond, Va., May 21 (AP).—Governor Tuck stood by his guns today on the subject of the State capitol's $3000 lawn.

His Excellency's view was that he wasn't going to allow any sitting, standing, romping, running, tumbling, loading, or other disporting on the green.

Farmers' Tour Set

Winchester, Va., May 21.—I. Fred Shine, county agent, said today that plans are being made for a farmers' tour of the Orange, Va., experiment station on Wednesday, May 28. The tour will be held jointly with Clarke County, the local agent said. Professional workers in the two counties visited the station last week.

New Radiologist Arrives

Winchester, Va., May 21.—Dr. John McL. Adams has recently become associated with Dr. Ellisworth Johnson in the practice of radiology at the Winchester Memorial Hospital here. A graduate of the Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia, Dr. Adams has practiced radiology at Johnson City, Tenn., and Terre Haute, Ind.

Sheep Dog Trials Set

Blacksburg, Va., May 21 (AP).—The official go-ahead for a sheep dog trial to be held in conjunction with this year's Eastern stud sale in Staunton has been received. Date for the event has been set for June 17 to precede the sheep show and sale, June 18 and 19. G. W. Litton, assistant animal husbandman for the extension

Livestock and Produce

Richmond Markets

Richmond, Va., May 21 (AP).—(Cattle)—Wholesale market: Choice, 10.00; good, 9.00; medium, 8.00; culls, 7.00. (Hogs)—Wholesale market: Choice, 10.00; good, 9.00; medium, 8.00; culls, 7.00. (Poultry)—Wholesale market: Turkeys, 10.00; chickens, 8.00; ducks, 7.00. (Dairy)—Wholesale market: Butter, 10.00; cheese, 8.00; milk, 7.00. (Eggs)—Wholesale market: Large, 10.00; small, 8.00. (Vegetables)—Wholesale market: Potatoes, 10.00; corn, 8.00; beans, 7.00. (Fruit)—Wholesale market: Apples, 10.00; oranges, 8.00; lemons, 7.00.

Baltimore Livestock

Baltimore, May 21 (AP).—(Cattle)—Wholesale market: Choice, 10.00; good, 9.00; medium, 8.00; culls, 7.00. (Hogs)—Wholesale market: Choice, 10.00; good, 9.00; medium, 8.00; culls, 7.00. (Poultry)—Wholesale market: Turkeys, 10.00; chickens, 8.00; ducks, 7.00. (Dairy)—Wholesale market: Butter, 10.00; cheese, 8.00; milk, 7.00. (Eggs)—Wholesale market: Large, 10.00; small, 8.00. (Vegetables)—Wholesale market: Potatoes, 10.00; corn, 8.00; beans, 7.00. (Fruit)—Wholesale market: Apples, 10.00; oranges, 8.00; lemons, 7.00.

Life Sentence For Ridgewell In Va. Slaying

Winchester, Va., May 21 (AP).—George R. Ridgewell, a 19-year-old Portland, Me., former sailor, today was sentenced to life imprisonment for the strangulation last December of Frederick A. Currie, a Grose Point, Mich., seaman.

Standing before Judge Elliott Marshall in Frederick County Circuit Court with his father and two young sisters among the spectators, the trim, dark-haired youth heard the verdict with no display of emotion.

Ridgewell, who waived trial by jury after changing his plea from innocent to guilty, reiterated to Commonwealth's Attorney J. Sloan Kuykendall that he had had the "spells" intermittently since he was struck by an automobile as a child and added that he had suffered "several" while serving on a ship in the Pacific during the war.

Objection Is Upheld

But the youthful former Navy man got no opportunity to answer when Kuykendall suddenly changed his line of questioning and asked:

"Did you have any 'dirty spell' on the night of December 23, 1944?"

Defense Attorney Joseph A. Massie objected strenuously and Judge Elliott Marshall upheld the objection.

December 23 is the day on which the State alleges that Ridgewell and William C. Hall of St. Louis, a discharged sailor, strangled to death Seaman First Class Frederick A. Currie of Grose Point, Mich., and left his body in the snow alongside a highway near here. Hall is slated to go on trial tomorrow and has pleaded innocent.

Kuykendall quoted to the court this morning from records of the Juvenile Court of Portland, which he said revealed that Ridgewell had been sent to the Maine school for boys for truancy while 12 years old, and had been returned there twice subsequently for violation of parole.

The early questioning by the Commonwealth's attorney gave Ridgewell no opportunity to resume the narrative he began yesterday of events leading up to the slaying of Currie.

Tells of N. Y. Trip

At that time, Ridgewell told the court of meeting William C. Hall of St. Louis, Mo., 19-year-old discharged Navy man—the other person charged with slaying Currie—on a New York street and of their subsequent trip to Pittsburgh, Pa., to visit "girl friends" of Hall. At the time of the New York meeting, he said, he was AWOL from his ship. He had overstayed his leave, he told the court, and was "afraid to go back."

Casteel Held For Hearing in Hoax Slaying

Wise, Va., May 21 (AP).—Bradley Casteel, the former soldier who came across State from Norfolk to show police a lonely mountain grave where he said he had buried a girl six years ago after shooting her to death—and then at last made a confession that he had killed her—will be given a preliminary hearing here Friday on a murder charge in connection with the case.

Commonwealth Attorney John Roberts announced yesterday that the hearing will be conducted before Trial Justice George L. Taylor. A murder warrant was sworn out here after a similar one had been issued in Norfolk, where Casteel first told his tale while jailed on a drunkenness charge.

After coming to Wise County and to within a few miles of "Bone Hollow" where he said he had buried a Baltimore, Md., girl named Anne Richardson, Casteel told police he would go no farther until he had consulted an attorney. Later he said the whole tale was a hoax. He has been held in Wise jail since that time.

Baltimore missing persons records show no Anne Richardson, among those listed as missing.

Senate Grants $85,000 More In Vote Probe

By Fred Zussy
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Senate yesterday granted an additional $85,000 for investigation of contested senatorial elections in Maryland and West Virginia.

An original appropriation of $35,000 had been made from a contingent fund, but only $12,000 of this amount is unexpended.

Chairman Brooks (R., Ill.) of the Rules Committee said his committee unanimously approved the request earlier in the day.

The additional money, Brooks explained, is needed "to insure payment of investigators for the proposed four months the work might take."

Brooks also announced the committee unanimously decided to call in Jack W. Hardy, committee counsel investigating the West Virginia contest, "to report to the subcommittee in a day or so."

The election of Senator Kilgore (D., W. Va.) is being contested by Thomas Sweeney, defeated Republican candidate. Brooks said Hardy had been in the State since April 1, making a preliminary investigation. No recount has been ordered as yet.

Senator Jenner (R., Ill.), chairman of the subcommittee, told reporters that group will continue its check of 6624 contested ballots in five Maryland counties where a recount had been completed.

Breach of Promise Suit

Frederick, Md., May 21.—A suit for $2500, charging breach of promise, was filed in Circuit Court here yesterday by Mrs. Ada C. Flock near Myerstown, against Paul E. Harshman, also of near Myerstown.

HANDCUFFS PUT ON—George R. Ridgewell, 19, leaves Circuit Court in Winchester, Va., for the noon recess and is handcuffed by State Policeman E. B. Mitchell. Ridgewell is on trial in the strangulation of Frederick A. Currie.

Maryland News

State's Crop Progress Report Brighter
On Week's Warmer Weather and Showers

The Maryland Weather Bureau reported yesterday in its weekly review that warmer weather and showers in the period ended Monday were favorable for growth of Maryland fruits and crops.

On four days of the week, the temperature was a few degrees above normal levels for the State at this season, reaching between 80 and 90 degrees on three of them. Two days were cooler than usual, about 10 degrees below the average.

Rains left the ground in good shape except on the lower Eastern Shore where it is dry.

The crop summary by sections included: Garrett, Allegany and Washington Counties: Grains in good to excellent condition. Corn being planted, some of it up. Garden crops are late, and those which survived the previous week's freeze are looking good. Peas are fine and the sowing of cantaloupes is being completed. Tomatoes are being planted. Those in the ground and killed by the freeze are being replaced.

West of Chesapeake Bay, including Frederick County—grains mostly in excellent condition. About 25 per cent of the corn is planted and some is coming up. Most truck crops which survived the freezing weather are doing well. Tobacco plant beds are late, but some are ready to set out in extreme southern counties. Pastures and grasses are good to excellent and the rains of the past few days have caused general improvement in southern counties.

Indications in the central and northern counties are that apples and cherries were damaged less than 25 per cent by the freeze, peaches from 25 to 100 per cent. Damage to strawberries was heavy but some are coming out again. In southern counties, damage to fruit was 25 to 50 per cent less than in northern counties; damage to strawberries was light and they are ripening and being picked locally. Most of the tomatoes, beans and tender crops were frozen and will have to be replanted.

Excursion Runs Slated
Baltimore, May 21 (AP).—The Tolchester Line announced today it will start its summer excursion steamer runs between Baltimore and the Eastern Shore resort on June 14.

The Tidewater, Bear Mountain, capable of carrying 2100 passengers, will make one round trip daily and three trips from Baltimore on Sundays.

Train Kills Man
Frederick, Md., May 21 (AP).—Robert C. Seals, 46, of Graceham, was killed early today when struck by a west-bound Western Maryland railroad freight train, State Trooper Kenneth Bond reported. He said Seals apparently had been walking along the railroad right of way.

Mt. Airy Farmer Hurt
Frederick, Md., May 21.—Jesse C. Maces, 24, of Mount Airy, was in a serious condition at the Frederick Memorial Hospital today as a result of injuries sustained when a pair of horses he was driving ran away. Maces was thrown to the ground and the mare spreader he was riding ran over him. At the hospital his injuries were described as a punctured lung, several broken ribs, abrasions and shock.

Escaped Trusty Hunted
Frederick, Md., May 21 (AP).—State and city police were alerted today to watch for a Maryland House of Correction trusty who escaped early today from a work detail assigned to accompany a consignment of the institution's cattle sent to a sale at the fair grounds.

The lookout order identified the escapee as Leroy George Staub, 29, formerly of Westminster, Md., sentenced in 1944 by the Frederick County Circuit Court to serve four years for housebreaking.

Staub was said to have slipped away about 3 a. m. He was convicted of breaking into Vindobona, summer hotel at Braddock Heights, Maryland.

C. R. Sauble Rites Set
Frederick, Md., May 21.—Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at Trinity Lutheran Church, Taneytown, for George B. Sauble, 71, former operator of Sauble's Inn at that Carroll County town for many years. Mr. Sauble died of a cerebral hemorrhage at his home yesterday.

Mr. Sauble opened his inn in 1916 and developed it into one of Maryland's foremost hostels. He was retired in 1943 because of ill health.

Mr. Sauble was active in affairs of Trinity Lutheran Church and was a member of the Taneytown I. O. O. F. Lodge and was a director of the First National Bank there. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Irene Reifender Sauble; one son, Norman B. Sauble, and one daughter, Mrs. Edmund P. Walker, both of Taneytown.

County to Pay for Road
Hagerstown, Md., May 21.—The Board of County Commissioners today voted to forward a check for $40,000 to the State Roads Commission, as its share of the cost of the controversial Hollow Road project in the Hancock section.

After being informed of the cost of the road, the board voted to forward the check.

League Urges Revamping of Tax Systems

Richmond, Va., May 21 (AP).—The League of Virginia Municipalities recommended to the special legislative commission on State and local taxation today a revision of State and local tax systems in Virginia to provide badly needed additional revenues for the cities and towns.

Calling for more equalization of revenue sources, William Hodges Mann, mayor of Petersburg and chairman of the league's committee on new sources of local revenue, pointed out that State general fund receipts increased 270 per cent from 1934 through 1945 while local levies on real estate—principal single source of revenue for the cities—were up only 9 per cent in the same period.

Replies to a questionnaire to eight Virginia cities showed a need for five million dollars additional revenue to enable them to carry on the necessary functions of government, he said. The eight cities, comprising about a third of the State's population area, excluding the City of Richmond which already has imposed new or increased taxes amounting to about two million dollars annually.

Charlotteville Included
The eight cities were Roanoke, Norfolk, Staunton, Newport News, Martinsville, Charlottesville, Petersburg and Portsmouth.

Mann said it was realized that part of the State's expanded revenues had been allocated as State aid to the localities but that in almost every instance these allocations had carried with them the requirement that the localities raise additional money from their local revenue sources.

"Indeed," he added, "it has almost come to the point where the acceptance of additional State aid, in some instances, is an additional burden rather than financial relief to the localities."

The Petersburg mayor called the commission's attention to previous recommendations that two thirds of the ABC profits beginning with the first dollar of net profit should be distributed to the localities; recommended that the tax code be amended so as to turn over to the localities for local taxation exclusively certain tangible personal property which is now taxable on capital by the State, and reminded that a previous legislative report also recommended that the tax code be amended to increase the local license taxes permitted on water, heat, light and power companies.

Will Study Sales Tax
Mann said the complete committee report would contain other suggestions which might prove of interest to the commission.

"Attention will be directed to payroll taxes, local sales taxes and a State sales tax with part of such tax collections returned to the localities," he said.

"I am not able at this juncture to state whether or not such taxes would meet with the approval of the majority of the municipalities at this time. I think I am safe in saying, however, that if a retail sales tax is adopted some formula must be devised which would return to the localities a fair proportionate share of the proceeds collected from the residents of such localities."

County Police Hold 15 Girls In Vice Drive
Hagerstown, Md., May 21 (AP).—Washington County authorities announced today they had rounded up 15 girls and 10 boys, aged 14 to 23, in a drive on venereal disease and were holding them in custody until they agree to treatment.

The drive was undertaken at the request of the Washington County health department and Deputy Sheriff Bruce Spickler reported today it was gaining momentum as infected persons revealed the names of those with whom they have had relations.

The health department said two of the girls were so badly infected they required immediate hospitalization.

County authorities said they would continue the roundup but would not hold anyone who consents to free treatment afforded by the health department.

Sheriff's deputies took up the campaign when health officials reported one incident in which an infected 14-year-old girl boasted she had sexual relations with 10 boys in one evening and another case in which a boy under 21 acknowledged he was operating a disorderly house in which the girls were 16 or under.

Dr. Perry F. Prather, acting Washington County health officer, suggested that Hagerstown employ a police woman to help with enforcement of vice laws.

Chief of Police Max W. Richard countered with the suggestion that health department workers be given police powers. He said past experiences have demonstrated a policeman would be "valueless."

New County School Head
Hagerstown, May 21 (AP).—William C. Diehl of Hagerstown has been appointed superintendent of Washington County schools, a new post created by the county board of education.

Diehl has been a teacher and principal in the county school system for 20 years, and for the past two years has been director of secondary schools. He was educated at Gettysburg College, the University of Maryland, and Columbia University.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WITH housing the No. 1 need of the Nation, the real estate-building-and-loan lobbies continue to be more active than ever to block any kind of public housing. Here is a sample of how the backstage boys operate.

Last November, the Republicans elected a new Congressman from San Diego, Calif.—Charles Fletcher, who is also president of the Home Federal Savings and Loan Association. Immediately following his election, Morton Bodfish, ace lobbyist for the building and loan associations, skillfully contrived to get Fletcher appointed to the Banking and Currency Committee.

Here is how Fletcher is reaping dividends for his building-and-loaners. Chat Paterson of the American Veterans Committee was testifying before the Banking and Currency Committee against the "Bodfish-inspired" legislation whereby emergency war housing built by the Government would be sold largely for cash and to the big real-estate operators. Paterson proposed the cities and veterans' groups be able to buy this war housing for low-income tenants. This brought an immediate objection from building-and-loan executive Congressman Fletcher.

"Socialized housing!" he exclaimed, adding that he was against Senator Taft's idea that the Government should help low-cost housing because private enterprise has failed.

"I resent the statement that private enterprise has not done the job," continued Fletcher. "It has not had a chance to do the job. The President has not turned loose the controls. This committee is even now working on legislation..."

"Socialized housing!" he exclaimed, adding that he was against Senator Taft's idea that the Government should help low-cost housing because private enterprise has failed.

"I resent the statement that private enterprise has not done the job," continued Fletcher. "It has not had a chance to do the job. The President has not turned loose the controls. This committee is even now working on legislation..."

"Socialized housing!" he exclaimed, adding that he was against Senator Taft's idea that the Government should help low-cost housing because private enterprise has failed.

"I resent the statement that private enterprise has not done the job," continued Fletcher. "It has not had a chance to do the job. The President has not turned loose the controls. This committee is even now working on legislation..."

"Socialized housing!" he exclaimed, adding that he was against Senator Taft's idea that the Government should help low-cost housing because private enterprise has failed.

"I resent the statement that private enterprise has not done the job," continued Fletcher. "It has not had a chance to do the job. The President has not turned loose the controls. This committee is even now working on legislation..."

"Socialized housing!" he exclaimed, adding that he was against Senator Taft's idea that the Government should help low-cost housing because private enterprise has failed.

"I resent the statement that private enterprise has not done the job," continued Fletcher. "It has not had a chance to do the job. The President has not turned loose the controls. This committee is even now working on legislation..."

"Socialized housing!" he exclaimed, adding that he was against Senator Taft's idea that the Government should help low-cost housing because private enterprise has failed.

"I resent the statement that private enterprise has not done the job," continued Fletcher. "It has not had a chance to do the job. The President has not turned loose the controls. This committee is even now working on legislation..."

"Socialized housing!" he exclaimed, adding that he was against Senator Taft's idea that the Government should help low-cost housing because private enterprise has failed.

"I resent the statement that private enterprise has not done the job," continued Fletcher. "It has not had a chance to do the job. The President has not turned loose the controls. This committee is even now working on legislation..."

"Socialized housing!" he exclaimed, adding that he was against Senator Taft's idea that the Government should help low-cost housing because private enterprise has failed.

"I resent the statement that private enterprise has not done the job," continued Fletcher. "It has not had a chance to do the job. The President has not turned loose the controls. This committee is even now working on legislation..."

"Socialized housing!" he exclaimed, adding that he was against Senator Taft's idea that the Government should help low-cost housing because private enterprise has failed.

"I resent the statement that private enterprise has not done the job," continued Fletcher. "It has not had a chance to do the job. The President has not turned loose the controls. This committee is even now working on legislation..."

"Socialized housing!" he exclaimed, adding that he was against Senator Taft's idea that the Government should help low-cost housing because private enterprise has failed.

"I resent the statement that private enterprise has not done the job," continued Fletcher. "It has not had a chance to do the job. The President has not turned loose the controls. This committee is even now working on legislation..."

"Socialized housing!" he exclaimed, adding that he was against Senator Taft's idea that the Government should help low-cost housing because private enterprise has failed.

"I resent the statement that private enterprise has not done the job," continued Fletcher. "It has not had a chance to do the job. The President has not turned loose the controls. This committee is even now working on legislation..."

"Socialized housing!" he exclaimed, adding that he was against Senator Taft's idea that the Government should help low-cost housing because private enterprise has failed.

Police Chief Resigns

Charles Town, W. Va., May 21.—Charles H. Ambrose, chief of police here from Brunswick, Md., 14 years here, has resigned. He has agreed to complete this week's work. He has been a member of the police force, and later chief, since coming here from Brunswick, Md., 14 years ago.

Apple Harvest Fete Called Off Due to Apathy

Martinsburg, W. Va., May 21.—The annual Apple Harvest Festival will not be revived this fall, the directors of the festival association announced last night after a meeting. Apathy of the public and several directors of the group was blamed by John L. Lightner, president, for the decision. He said the group will continue but that the "next move is up to the public."

In the past the festival included over contributions toward a fund, coming in sufficient measure to insure a successful event. Lightner said that this year, however, help, have not been forthcoming.

Bring your FORD TRUCK
"back home"
for service!

YOUR OLD TRUCK may have to last you a little longer. To keep it working efficiently, profitably—bring it "back home" to us for Genuine Ford Service... better four ways.

1. Factory-trained mechanics
2. Special Ford equipment
3. Ford-approved methods
4. Genuine Ford Truck Parts

FORD TRUCKS
LAST LONGER!

Service that Satisfies

SSSSSSSTOP
WITH SAFETY STRIPES

FIVE EMERGENCY BRAKES?
Yes sir!...when you include the amazing braking power of four Fisk Safti-Flight tires! The unique white Safety Stripes (no other tire has them!) form hundreds of stubborn road-gripping edges to help you stop quickly...and straight-line! Smart-looking, too, with extra-thick tread to give you thousands of extra miles of confident driving. See them TODAY!

FISK Safti-Flight
THE SAFETY STRIPE TIRE
CAPITOL TIRE DISTRIBUTORS

8527 Georgia Ave.
Daily 8:30 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Sligo 3400
Friday and Saturday 8:30 to 9 P. M.

Silver Spring, Md.

PARK & TILFORD RESERVE

"The Blend of Experience"

ALSO AVAILABLE IN PINTS
AND 1/2 PINTS

Behind every bottle is the quality-tradition of Park & Tilford and the knowledge gained in over a century of experience. That is why it is—

"the finest-tasting whiskey of its type in America!"

PARK & TILFORD DISTILLERS, INC., NEW YORK, N. Y. • 70% GRAIN NEUTRAL SPIRITS • 86.8 PROOF

"First over the bars!"

Time, patience and skill make Hunter a champion. For superb whiskeys, like prize-winning jumpers, must be developed slowly, expertly and with infinite care. Matchless in flavor and all-around excellence, today's Hunter adds still greater distinction to its title: An American Gentleman's Whiskey since 1860.

HUNTER
Fine Blended Whiskey

4/5 QT.
$4.07
PINT
$2.57

Hunter-Whiskey Distilling Co., Inc., Louisville, Ky. Blended whiskey, 82 proof. The straight whiskeys in this product are 8 or more years old. 40% straight whiskey, 60% grain neutral spirits.

Wife Was Red, Marzani Says stressed that Marzani, while a member of of OSS, had selected the targets for Doolittle's raiders from the Carrier Hornet on April 18, 1942.

Yesterday under cross-examination by Kelley, Marzani said he had started work with OSS March 7, 1942. Marzani said he believed the raid took place "months later."

"The Doolittle raid took place April 18," Kelley pointed out.

The defendant acknowledged his "recollection" was "faulty."

Communist Activities Denied

(Yesterday a spokesman for Col. John Hilger, Falls Church, who led one of the flights on the Tokyo raid, declared that final section of targets was made aboard the Hornet. He said that numerous possibilities for bomb targets had been suggested and that "some of them may have come from OSS." The spokesman said that he considered it "likely" that work on target possibilities would have started more than six weeks in advance of the actual operation.)

Kelley also hammered at alleged compensatory leave taken by the defendant while he was with the State Department. The Government later billed Marzani for $1200 according to the leave was unauthorized. The defendant declared he took the leave in accordance with a general order in his outfit that soldiers may have compensatory time off for overtime. The time had accrued while Marzani was a soldier, but he took the leave as a civilian in the same job.

Earlier cross-examination was similar to that of Tuesday with the defendant disclaiming any communist activities and denying virtually everything testified to by prosecution witnesses. Yesterday's session adjourned at 1:25 p. m.

DAR Pledges All-Out Fight Against Threat of Communism resolutions was an expressed determination to keep American classrooms and public libraries "free from false and insidious doctrines and interpretations."

While backing adequate pay for teachers "to afford them economic security," the delegates voted to reaffirm the DAR's opposition to any Federal legislation which would tend toward further regimentation and centralization of government and the removal of State control.

Delegates went on record in opposition to a pending congressional bill to amend the Nationality Act and advocated retention and enforcement of the immigration laws adopted in 1924.

Convention voters also passed a resolution commending the work of the Committee on Un-American Activities and called upon the DAR State Chapters to petition Congress to make appropriations sufficient to continue and develop the Committee's program.

A round of applause greeted the passage of a resolution commending Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

Mrs. Talmadge Hit

For Policy Statement

Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge, retiring DAR president, yesterday was criticized by the Southern Conference for Human Welfare for her statement on DAR policy at Constitution Hall.

Mrs. Talmadge had said the DAR would change its policy banning Negro performers. "When the District changes its policy," Robert W. Straus, executive secretary of the Washington Committee of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare, yesterday declared.

"The policy of Constitution Hall is diametrically opposed to the policy of all other public theaters, halls and auditoriums in the District of Columbia."

"The DAR's Constitution Hall," said Straus, "is the lone stand-out among all the public halls, theaters and auditoriums here. It is the only hall which bans Negro performers. Such a policy is not worthy either of the name 'Constitution Hall' or of the traditions of the American Revolution."

Constitution Hall, although it does not permit Negroes to appear as performers, imposes no restrictions on Negroes as members of audiences who attend functions for which the hall is leased.

Legion Planning

Memorial Parade

Arrangements are being completed by Falls Church Post No. 130, American Legion, for the annual Memorial Day Parade May 30 in Falls Church. It was announced yesterday by Roscoe Scott, first vice-commander of the Post.

The parade will form at 11 a. m. in front of the American Legion Club House, 610 Fulton st. and march down Park ave. to the State Theater, turn right down Washington st. to the intersection of Hillwood ave., then left up Hillwood ave. to the Falls Church high school.

There will be a dedication ceremony held in front of the high school with the laying of a wreath at the base of the flag pole.

Virginia Beach, Va.

PRINCESS ANNE HOTEL

Virginia Beach, Va.

Directly on Ocean—Southern Cooking

Full and Spring Rates

Kitty Hawk, N. C.

THE WILBUR WRIGHT

NAGS HEAD BEACH

New, most delightful hotel on beach.

Attractive rooms with private bath.

A playground of miles of sandy beach.

Surf bathing, fishing, tennis, beach club, tennis. DIANE JOHNSON, Mgr.

KITTY HAWK, N. CAR.

SO PAT SAYS TO MIKE --

HEARD IT! BUT I HAVEN'T HEARD HOW YOU MAKE SUCH A GOOD TOM COLLINS

OH, I TAKE A LITTLE CASSIA AND SOME CORIANDER AND...

I'LL WRITE 'EM DOWN

NO NEED TO -- THEY'RE SOME OF THE IMPORTED BOTANICALS HIRAM WALKER'S GIN IS DISTILLED WITH. STICK TO HIRAM WALKER'S AND YOU'LL GET A COLLINS THIS GOOD

HIRAM WALKER'S Distilled London Dry GIN

90 proof. Distilled from 100% American grain. Hiram Walker & Sons Inc., Peoria, Ill.

Post Want Ads Produce Results

Lynch Mobs Don't Always Wear HOODS

by JIMMY CANNON
America's ace sports writer

You don't always lynch a man by hanging him from a tree. There is a great lynch mob among us and they go unhooded and work without the rope.

They have no leader but their own hatred of humanity. They are the quietly degraded, who plot against the helpless with skill and a coward's stealth and without fear of reprisal. Their weapon is as painful as the lash, the hot tar, the noose or the shotgun. They string up a man with the whisper of a lie and they persecute him with ridicule. They require no burning cross as a signal of assembly and need no sheet to identify themselves to each other. They are the night riders who operate 24 hours a day.

They lynch a man with a calculated contempt which no court of law can consider a crime. Such a venomous conspiracy is the one now trying to run Jackie Robinson out of organized baseball. It does not go for all ball players and not even all the St. Louis Cards, some of whom are accused of trying to arrange a strike to protest against the presence of a Negro in the big league. But such a state exists and we should all be ashamed of it, not only those connected with the sport, but any one who considers this his country. It is an indication, I believe, that as a people we are a failure and not as good as the laws by which we live.

We are a people guaranteed more freedoms than any other on earth. Yet there are among us some who would refute those documents which pledge us the things that people fight for everywhere and rarely achieve. When such persecutions become the aim of a government it is the record of history that men rise in revolt against the leaders of their state. It was to defeat such persecutions that men fought in the undergrounds of Europe and in every righteous army since man first realized freedom is seldom achieved without struggle. We are a people who consider such privileges as ordinary because they were written down in the book for us to live by long ago. But among us are those who consider these liberties as their own and would take them from the defenseless whom they can afford to torment. They form a lynch mob that is out to avenge a right.

Only the stupidly bold among them collect on mountain sides by the light of torches. You find them wherever you go and their lodge is national although they pay no dues and carry no card. It is only natural that baseball, being our country's sport, should be played by some of them because they are in all trades and professions and they carry an invisible rope with them at all times. It is my belief that such a philosophy of hate does not dominate baseball. If it does, then they should burn up all the bats and balls and turn cattle to graze on the outfield grass. Baseball is not a way of life but an escape from it. It is to the bleachers and the grandstands that the multitudes flee to forget the world beyond the fences. Such a haven should not be corrupted by senseless hate, but once it is, baseball has no reason to exist.

Baseball is supported by the people and I have heard them demand justice for Robinson. If their applause is any indication, they ask that Robinson be accepted as an athlete and is entitled to the right to be judged by the scorer's ledger and not by the prejudices of indecent men. It is my belief that Robinson is a big leaguer of ordinary ability. If he is not, then he should be sent down to the minors because it is the opinion of all of us who consider baseball a sport that skill and honesty are the only qualifications a man should have. It is doubtful if Robinson has yet shown his true worth. He came up as a shortstop, was transformed into a second baseman at Montreal and now is playing first. It is a tribute to his solidness as a man that he hasn't fallen apart as a ball player. Less heart has burned better ball players out of the big leagues. About him rages the silent uproar of a perpetual commotion. He is the most discussed ball player of his time and his judges do not evaluate him for his actions on the field alone. But he has concealed the turmoil within him and when you talk to him there is no indication he regards himself as a special man who faces problems no other big leaguer ever faced before. The times I have spoken to him he has praised all those with whom he plays.

What goes on in the privacy of the hotel rooms where the Dodgers gather I don't know. I have listened to Eddie Stanky praise Robinson for his alertness. Jackie told me himself that Hughie Casey had helped him when he needed practice and advice on making the difficult plays a first baseman must face.

But in the clubhouse Robinson is a stranger. The Dodgers are polite and courteous with him but it is obvious he is isolated by those with whom he plays. I have never heard remarks made against him or detected any rudeness where he was concerned. But the silence is loud and Robinson never is part of the jovial and aimless banter of the locker room. He is the loneliest man I have ever seen in sports.

We have been involved in a war to guarantee all people the right to a life without fear. The peoples of the earth are still assailed by the same doubts and terrors. The old men once more talk of violence and only the dead are sure of peace. In such a world it seems a small thing that a man be able to play a game unmolested. In our time such a plea should be unnecessary. But when it happens we must again remember that all this country's enemies are not beyond the frontiers of our home land.

Presented AS A PUBLIC SERVICE by INTERNATIONAL LATEX CORPORATION ★ PLAYTEX PARK
DOVER DELAWARE
COPYRIGHTED, 1947, BY NEW YORK POST CORPORATION
PAID ADVERTISEMENT ... BUY U. S. SAVINGS BONDS

Five Star DC-6 Flagships

via DC-6 Flagship
Chicago is this close to Washington

2 HOURS, 50 MINUTES TO CHICAGO, NONSTOP

The new Five Star DC-6 Flagship effectively moves Chicago to Maryland—because travel time by DC-6 from Washington to Chicago is about one-fifth the time required by the fastest surface transportation. You save almost thirteen hours—more than half a day!

One Washington business firm, with five men each traveling once a month to Chicago, estimates that these men, making their round-trips by DC-6 Flagship, are gaining about 194 work-days a year!

Thus, a new pattern of air transportation has become reality—profoundly changing our values in many different ways. The relationship between time and distance is altered to the traveler's advantage.

Lv. Washington 5:00 p. m. EST.—Ar. Chicago 6:50 p. m. CST. Daily Except Saturday

Fare: $33.00 plus tax

Phone EXecutive 2345

Ticket Offices: Statler Hotel and 813 15th Street, N. W.

AMERICAN AIRLINES

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS NEWS IN PICTURES

TANK TRAPS IN PASS—From a high point on the road through Khyber Pass, northern gateway to India, the "dragons' teeth" of tank traps built during World War II form symmetrical patterns. History has named the pass the "pathway of the invaders."

TRIBESMAN GUARD—In front of a northern Indian village, surrounded by a wall and guarded by a tower, stands an Afghani tribesman, typical of residents of the frontier region.

PICTURESQUE PORT—United States fleet units on a visit to Istanbul, Turkey, are seen between the minarets of a former sultan's mosque, now being turned into a naval museum.

SOCCER JUMP—Action speeds up near the goal in a soccer game between the New York All-Stars and Palestine Hapoel. Player in air is Hapoel's Captain Herman Ehrlich.

BRUSSELS EXHIBITION—Crowds move into the Centenary Palace in Brussels, Belgium, to inspect renewal of the International Trade Fair after a lapse since 1889.

HOME TO ROOST—A U.S. Navy fighter plane comes in for a landing on the deck of the aircraft carrier Leyte, as the warship plows a wake in the Mediterranean Sea during its recent cruise. Above is the overhang of the flight deck; below, sailors watch from an anti-aircraft gun platform on the carrier's hangar deck.

STATUE—This peace monument, erected on a high hill along the Danube by the Hungarians, was dedicated to those who defended Budapest, Hungary, during World War II.

INVADER—Patsy Cummins, petite actress from the British Isles now making pictures in Hollywood, poses in a costume she wears in a forthcoming film.

PRAVDA'S COMPOSING ROOM—This is the composing room of the official Communist party newspaper, Pravda, in Moscow. The 36 type-setting machines are part of a nine-story, block-square plant built in 1934. Pravda prints 1,800,000 four-page papers daily.

GOLFERS—Mrs. Dolores Hope, (left) wife of the comedian Bob Hope, and Mrs. Anne Niles are shown at Palm Springs, Calif., during a women's golf meet in which they competed.

GIANT DISC PLOW—A 60-foot disc plow which turns a strip of earth 42 feet wide at the rate of 14 acres an hour moves across the plain near Wildhorse, Colo.

PICNIC SCENE—Her pet dog Ruffles is the guest of honor at a beach picnic staged by Marilyn Monroe, a youthful newswoman to the ranks of film players.

PLENTY OF TIME—A feminine visitor to an exhibit of timepieces in the British Industries Fair in London sets her watch by one of the 240 alarm clocks on the walls. Other displays in the fair were opened to the public in Birmingham.

AN ANSWER TO AMERICA'S NEED FOR LOWER PRICES.....

TODAY, the "miracle metal" of the war is no longer in critical supply. Aluminum production is more than a billion pounds a year, compared with only 400 million before Pearl Harbor. Manufacturers can now depend upon continuity of delivery.

As America's great new source of aluminum, Reynolds offers immediate and regular deliveries in any required form—rolled, drawn, stamped or extruded—including alloys that are as strong as structural steel though only $\frac{1}{3}$ as heavy.

And not only is Reynolds Aluminum immediately available in any quantity. It is available at the lowest price in all history. As this graph shows, aluminum is the only metal that has come way down below pre-war price, while other metals have doubled in price.

Put to use by enterprising manufacturers, Reynolds Aluminum can help to do the two-fold job that American economy needs: Its present low cost can still bring down prices—stimulating sales. Its lightness, strength, imperviousness to rust and ability to take fine finishes can improve products—for still more sales stimulation and consumer satisfaction. Thus, with Reynolds Aluminum, business and the public both can be better served.

If you are a manufacturer interested in giving the public the benefit of lower manufacturing costs and product improvement... ask a Reynolds technical representative to call on you.

ALUMINUM NOW AVAILABLE IN QUANTITY AT THE LOWEST PRICE IN HISTORY

★ ★ ★

INGOT ★ SHEET ★ SHAPES
WIRE ★ ROD ★ BAR TUBING ★ FOIL ★ POWDER

IF YOU SEE RUST
YOU KNOW IT'S NOT ALUMINUM

REYNOLDS METALS COMPANY

Reynolds representatives are available in OFFICES IN PRINCIPAL CITIES, or write to Reynolds Metals Company, 2500 South 3rd Street, Louisville 1, Kentucky.

AMERICA'S GREAT NEW SOURCE OF ALUMINUM

Thursday, May 22, 1947

Phone Settlement

Two factors stand out in the piecemeal telephone strike settlements, one of the most important of which was reached Tuesday by the Western Electric Co. on an 11½-cent-an-hour pattern. The first conclusion is that in a naked test of strength, the unions came out second best. The other is that regardless of the wage increase they finally were granted, the workers actually have lost ground.

Despite the relative success of some strong locals, by and large the National Federation of Telephone Workers was no match for the power of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and its subsidiaries, especially in such a prolonged strike. Moreover, the companies were buttressed by the extent of dial operations and the fact that the strike did not prove to be a great public inconvenience. Thus signs of union disintegration may be seen in the collapse of insistence on Nation-wide bargaining and by such items as the relinquishment of maintenance of dues to which one Washington local was forced to agree. Telephone workers who think about it are bound to be impressed by the fact that they have suffered a setback. For instance, a Washington operator making $40 a week before the strike lost more than $240 in wages. With the $4 increase, it will take more than a year to make up the difference.

From the company's standpoint the victory is not without its unfavorable implications. If the NFWO does actually fall apart as a result of the strike, outside encroachment will be invited and if the CIO or AFL should invade the telephone field, management might find its past worries considerably magnified. Meanwhile, however, the immediate outcome should demonstrate to the telephone workers the futility of the strike as a weapon for their grievances at this time.

Incitement

The U. N. plea for a cessation of terrorism in Palestine while the proposed U. N. investigation is under way has been rejected by the two underground groups in Palestine, Irgun Zvai Laumi and the Sternists. That is a pity. The U. N. plea, we feel sure, is backed by American opinion, because it was made against the background of the appointment of a U. N. committee of investigation, which requires a truce in order to do its work properly. The people in Palestine ought to be aware of the sentiment in this country against any face-slapping at the expense of the United Nations.

What applies to the terrorists in Palestine applies with equal force to their friends in America. Some of these latter are still trying to whip up support, financial and moral, from the general public, as witness the advertisements of the Palestine Resistance Fund. One of them entitled "Letter to the Terrorists of Palestine" by Ben Hecht, co-chairman of the American League for a Free Palestine, was nothing less than a flagrant incitement to violence, and worse. Included in it is the thoroughly misleading suggestion that the Jews in America rejoice over every outbreak. The British government, it is said, has entered a strong protest against this kind of incitement. In any circumstances the stirring up of killer passions is reprehensible but, at a time when the U. N. is engaged in trying to settle the Palestine issue, it is intolerable. Nothing but evil can come from the maintenance of such harmful agitation, even for the future of Palestine. Violence (which, admittedly, was bred by violence as well as tragedy) can become a habit, and, as was shown during the resistance-to-Hitler years, it is apt to unfit a man for constructive work when the times call for statesmanship.

The friends in America of the Palestine terrorists are grouped in several bodies which are loosely called the Bergson group. In 1944, when they sought to set up a Hebrew Embassy here, The Post spotlighted their activities as inimical to America's best interests. At the time we suggested that any agency which is collecting funds from the public should be compelled to make a public accounting for them. This was done during wartime under the administrative aegis of the President's War Relief Board, which had a licensing power. But this board now has been disbanded, and appeals for funds are again allowed to be made without any kind of supervision.

Before the objectionable advertisement appeared, the British, it seems, had entered an objection against appeals for funds for the terrorists on the grounds that in the case of organizations having tax-exemption privileges, their activities are subsidized by the American Government. Apparently the British are mistaken about the organization that sponsored the Hecht advertisement; it has no such privilege. But the point remains that in the matter of this kind of appeal steps should be taken to protect both the public and our American interests. A similar illustration of the need for safeguards occurred in connection with some recent anti-American advertisements put out in behalf of the Yugoslavs. The present instance is the more noxious because of our vote in the United Nations for a committee of investigation whose work is bound to be hampered by the maintenance of Palestine terrorism.

Chest Organization

No social survey report was needed to tell the people of Washington or officials of the Community Chest that changes in our machinery for raising and distributing community funds are needed. It is well known that the chest is in a period of transition. And there can be little question as to the direction that the forthcoming adjustments must take: there must be a closer pulling together of agencies working in this field. We do not see, however, that the current report on the Council of Social Agencies, which suggests that the council should take over the fund-distributing function of the Community Chest, while the fund-raising function is being absorbed by an organization serving the entire Washington area, makes any substantial contribution to this process.

Undoubtedly there are some useful suggestions in this report and in the 30 recommendations of the citizens' committee. They urge, for example, wider representation on the governing boards of the chest and the council, especially in the case of labor unions and minority groups. Chest officials inaugurated a move toward this end last January. They had found in the case of labor unions, for example, that the union does not feel itself represented when one of its members is appointed to the chest board. Some believe that the only solution is to have the unions themselves designate members for such an assignment. Action in this broadening the base of the chest has been deferred, however, until the report of the 24-member Citizens' Committee headed by William E. Leahy completes its investigation of the chest and makes its report.

As to the integration of the chest and the council, the question is not whether it should be achieved but on what terms. Rivalry between the two agencies in the past has been clearly evident. What is perhaps more serious is that the present controversy involving the chest arises out of a lack of any meeting of minds between the two agencies as to the type of social surveys which the chest was to finance and the council to set in motion. To avoid such conflicts in the future the planning arm and the money-raising arm must be brought into closer coordination. In our opinion the two agencies might well be merged. We should then have one community organization looking after the social welfare of the people, with one specialized committee tending to fund-raising and another to planning.

But obviously this merger, if it is to be achieved, cannot be a mere resignation on the part of the chest in favor of the council. If the two were to be judged according to the alertness and energy of their organizations, we suspect that the chest would readily come out on top. Of greater weight, however, is the fact that contributors to the community fund must be given a substantial voice in the control of their contributions if the technique of making one city-wide appeal for social needs is to be successful. We hope that the present federation of chests in the Washington area can eventually tighten its organizational lines and become a unified agency serving greater Washington. That objective will not be made more remote by consolidation of the Washington chest and council, for three of the adjacent counties have already effected such consolidations. But the nucleus of the larger fund-raising agency will certainly have to be the Washington Community Chest. In other words, it seems to us that the survey committee has talked too much about a shifting of chest functions to the Council of Social Agencies and not enough about a genuine merger that would preserve the experience, the momentum and the good will of both organizations. In order to succeed, the new undertaking will certainly have to rest in large measure upon the foundation that the Community Chest has laid.

Greek Faith

Apparently the counsels of the moderates have prevailed in the Greek government's decision to offer another amnesty. That decision will do nothing to hurt Greece's case before the world, and conceivably it can be of material aid in strengthening the Greek stand. The government has signified its good faith, in reply to an American suggestion, by inviting international observation of the amnesty when it is proclaimed. We should like to see this job undertaken through the United Nations by representatives of one or several small nations not directly concerned in the Greek imbroglio.

The test of the Greek government's sincerity, of course, will be how broad the amnesty is and how thoroughly the government is able to protect participants from Rightist recrimination. It is undoubtedly true that the effectiveness of previous amnesty offers has been dulled by continued infiltration of revolutionaries from outside Greece. This has bolstered the Communist-trained guerrilla leaders and has enabled them to maintain a hold over the rank-and-file opponents of the government who do not necessarily subscribe to Communist philosophy. Thus, for the amnesty to be meaningful, it is important that these outside incursions be halted, either by the United Nations or by the Greek government itself, with the aid of American military equipment. At the same time, however, there is nothing to prevent the Greek government from extending the amnesty immediately to the Republican generals and others who are not Communists but who have languished in jail despite promises of release. We hope that such a provision will be included in the new amnesty proposal. It would do a lot to quell doubts as to the intentions of the present regime now that American dollars have been assured.

Meanwhile, let no one believe that the reactionaries in and around the Greek government have suddenly disappeared or lost their influence. A recent example is the denunciation of The Washington Post by pro-government Athens newspapers as "the organ of the E.A.M. (Communist left bloc) in the United States." Presumably this arises because The Post had the temerity to suggest that an amnesty was essential. Such puerilities are but another indication of the confusion and obfuscation that will impede the effort to bring order out of chaos in Greece. They are another argument for our doing everything within our power to build up the moderates while eschewing the excesses of both Right and Left.

Archbishop Curley

The sudden death of the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore and Washington, has necessarily raised the question whether he is to have one successor or two. Without presuming or desiring to read the mind of Rome in such a matter, it seems to us that, as a matter of logic, the latter answer is the more probable. In 1939 Washington was separated from the ecclesiastical province of Baltimore and created into a special Metropolitan See, with a cathedral and chapter of its own, and Msgr. Curley was designated as ordinary of both archdioceses. This division was one of the earliest acts of the pontificate of Pope Pius XII, and was generally attributed to the observations he had made when, as Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, he had visited this country some four years previously. And, indeed, to many Americans, both Catholic and Protestant, it had long seemed incongruous that the importance of the capital of the richest and most powerful nation in Christendom should have been so long unrecognized.

At the same time the appointment of Archbishop Curley as Metropolitan of both jurisdictions was plainly appropriate in view of the great services he had already rendered to them. However, the archdiocese of Baltimore, which has some claims to be considered the primal seat of the United States, and which, originally, had virtually national jurisdiction, has been so frequently subdivided that it has become one of the smallest in America. At the time of the creation of the Baltimore Archdiocese, Maryland was the only State of the Union having a considerable number of Catholics, but by the mid-nineteenth century this situation had been radically altered as the result of the Louisiana Purchase and of the influx of Irish and German immigrants. Today the number of Catholics in the archdiocese of Baltimore is far smaller than in many others, among them Boston, New York, Chicago, Brooklyn, New Orleans. Meantime, the City of Baltimore itself, despite a considerable growth, has gradually declined in rank and influence in the Nation. Thus it seems probable that when the vacancies created by the death of Archbishop Curley are filled, at least as much consideration will be given to the present political and international importance of Washington as to the historical claims of Baltimore.

Such speculations, of course, do not in any wise diminish the sense of loss and of grief that most Washingtonians of every creed must feel at the passing of so eminent and attractive a figure as the late Archbishop, for he was the sort of man whose virtues become more clearly perceptible in death. Chief, perhaps, among these was the virtue of candor; he spoke his mind on every occasion and neither in this nor in any other matter was he a respecter of persons. If, as it seemed to us, he was sometimes wrong, he was never equivocal, and he was as far removed as is imaginable from the Victorian Protestant conception of the sly and subtle Popish prelate. He was a man of considerable learning, but his genius was that of an organizer and administrator rather than of the scholar or diplomat. This is evident in the vast improvement of the archdiocesan education system, which he found in a state of some decrepitude, in the impressive number of modern school buildings and handsome churches and other edifices erected since 1921, and in the financial vitality of various ecclesiastical corporations.

Discrimination At Home

Please permit me to commend you for the excellent publicity given on May 16 to the President's Committee on Civil Rights with reference to its report on racial discrimination in the Nation's Capital. To the millions of enlightened and impartial citizens in the Capital and throughout the Nation, it represents a very definite departure from the negative approach to communism that is advocated by many groups in our society.

The billions of dollars requested by our President for anti-Communist movements in European and Asiatic nations will certainly be a stupid and futile extravagance if we in our anxiety to impose our democratic institutions upon them refuse to observe the taints that lie therein, which could possibly defeat our purposes. The time has come that we in America should realize that "dollar diplomacy" belongs to a decadent age, and that the effectiveness of our leadership depends not upon our wealth but upon our ability to demonstrate the Christian precepts as they were taught and practiced by the Prince of Peace.

NELSON S. BURKE, JR.
Washington.

Letters To The Editor

GI Allowances

Since reference has twice been made in The Post to my statement which was submitted in writing on May 8 to the Senate subcommittee and orally on May 15, I am writing only to correct the record.

The Committee on the Relationships of Higher Education to the Federal Government of the American Council on Education, for which I was testifying, urged an increase of $7.50 per month for all veterans in training and education who have one dependent; an increase of $10 per month for the first child and $7.50 for each additional child of student veterans; and that the present ceiling of $175 and $200 for combined subsistence payments and earned income be increased to $250 per month for a veteran with no dependent, $300 with one dependent and $325 with more than one dependent.

A total of 2,600,000 veterans are now in education and training. Thirty-five per cent are married and of these 40 per cent average 1.27 children per family. If the recommendations which I made to the subcommittee are enacted into law it will increase the present subsistence payments to veterans by at least 168 million dollars a year—130 million dollars for dependents and 38 million dollars as a result of lifting the ceiling.

In the light of these facts, it is difficult to understand how your correspondent of May 16 could assert that the American Council on Education is not interested in the liberalization of veterans' benefits.

FRANCIS J. BROWN,
Staff Associate, American Council on Education,
Washington.

Hoover Dam

Mr. Ickes' chagrin at the changing of the name of Boulder Dam to Hoover Dam seems to be more than he can stand. So he writes a long letter (published May 25, entitled "Interior Department Cut," was cited with approval on the floor of Congress by congressional proponents of Western stagnation.

People of the West wonder whether the House action was motivated by ignorance or by hostility on the part of Eastern interests. Because I have always regarded The Post as an alert and aggressive newspaper with a high-caliber editorial page, I prefer to think that your newspaper is neither ignorant nor hostile but, rather, that it has been sold a bill of goods in a weak moment.

I say this because your editorial approval of the House committee action has a familiar ring. It contains the old, hackneyed arguments that were used for many years by the enemies of Grand Coulee and other Western projects.

Your editorial said: "Utopian plans for making the wilderness blossom by the Hoover Dam is a dream of the future." Fourteen years ago similar statements were made about the foolishness of building hydroelectric plants and storage dams in the wilderness, where only jackrabbits and sagebrush grew.

Had those wise Federal investments not been made a decade ago, would we have survived the delay in building the B-17 and the B-29? It was fortunate indeed that the "dream of the future" had become a reality in time to supply the power for our war-time aluminum production—power crucial for victory—which private companies admittedly could not supply.

Your editorial writer regards the economic development of this region—scheduled during these last 14 years—as a "forcing process." Apparently he approves a forcing process by pinching-neck zealots to slow the march of Western economy. He cites with approval the House committee opinion that "deferral of certain developmental construction projects to a more propitious time" can save many millions of dollars.

Rivers that run idly to the sea instead of supplying power for in-

"But I'm Hungry!"

Communications must be addressed to the editor and must carry the complete name and address of the writer. Though pen names will be permitted at the editor's discretion. Letters of less than 200 words will be given preference, and all letters are subject to condensation. Contributors are limited to one letter a month. No communication can be returned.

are afraid that the suggested change in method of choosing the school board will be accepted and a new board and superintendent come into office; a board and superintendent honestly and wholeheartedly interested in securing the best possible teachers for Arlington children and not in penny-pinching economy, patronage and political plums.

Teachers who are afraid of losing their jobs, for whatever reason, cannot give their best efforts to their work, which is tremendously demanding of their patience, alertness and imagination. The best way to help teachers, the students and the school system of Arlington County is to cast our votes on May 27 in favor of direct election of the school board, and in support of the bond issue which will give a new school board the funds needed for the many long-awaited, long-desired improvements in educational facilities.

ELISABETH B. CHAPMAN,
Arlington.

"Interior Department Cut"

It is regrettable indeed to learn that The Post has supported drastic budget slashes voted for Western power and reclamation projects. The Post editorial of April 25, entitled "Interior Department Cut," was cited with approval on the floor of Congress by congressional proponents of Western stagnation.

People of the West wonder whether the House action was motivated by ignorance or by hostility on the part of Eastern interests. Because I have always regarded The Post as an alert and aggressive newspaper with a high-caliber editorial page, I prefer to think that your newspaper is neither ignorant nor hostile but, rather, that it has been sold a bill of goods in a weak moment.

I say this because your editorial approval of the House committee action has a familiar ring. It contains the old, hackneyed arguments that were used for many years by the enemies of Grand Coulee and other Western projects.

Your editorial said: "Utopian plans for making the wilderness blossom by the Hoover Dam is a dream of the future." Fourteen years ago similar statements were made about the foolishness of building hydroelectric plants and storage dams in the wilderness, where only jackrabbits and sagebrush grew.

Had those wise Federal investments not been made a decade ago, would we have survived the delay in building the B-17 and the B-29? It was fortunate indeed that the "dream of the future" had become a reality in time to supply the power for our war-time aluminum production—power crucial for victory—which private companies admittedly could not supply.

Your editorial writer regards the economic development of this region—scheduled during these last 14 years—as a "forcing process." Apparently he approves a forcing process by pinching-neck zealots to slow the march of Western economy. He cites with approval the House committee opinion that "deferral of certain developmental construction projects to a more propitious time" can save many millions of dollars.

Rivers that run idly to the sea instead of supplying power for in-

"Gun Toting"

Your editorial of May 18, recommending a committee of specially qualified persons to act in an advisory capacity on the formulation of an adequate law for controlling the sale, possession and disposition of small arms in the District, is to be commended.

I would like to suggest the addition of at least two more to this committee than you specifically mentioned. These would be two who have been refused permits without specific cause by the District police, and in spite of such qualifications as already holding such permits in other States, demonstrated ability to handle and use such firearms safely and intelligently, previous experience as an armed peace officer, and as a local resident who has been the victim of several robberies.

Shootings are deplorable and should be stopped if it is humanly possible to stop them—and that includes the wanton shooting of children by District policemen for such minor crimes as trespassing—as was recently reported in The Post. But if the local police are helpless to prevent the increasing number of crimes of violence in the District, they should at least not be permitted to deprive a law-abiding citizen of protecting himself—and we evidently need a law which will bring this about.

ELISABETH B. CHAPMAN,
Washington.

"Interior Department Cut"

It is regrettable indeed to learn that The Post has supported drastic budget slashes voted for Western power and reclamation projects. The Post editorial of April 25, entitled "Interior Department Cut," was cited with approval on the floor of Congress by congressional proponents of Western stagnation.

People of the West wonder whether the House action was motivated by ignorance or by hostility on the part of Eastern interests. Because I have always regarded The Post as an alert and aggressive newspaper with a high-caliber editorial page, I prefer to think that your newspaper is neither ignorant nor hostile but, rather, that it has been sold a bill of goods in a weak moment.

I say this because your editorial approval of the House committee action has a familiar ring. It contains the old, hackneyed arguments that were used for many years by the enemies of Grand Coulee and other Western projects.

Your editorial said: "Utopian plans for making the wilderness blossom by the Hoover Dam is a dream of the future." Fourteen years ago similar statements were made about the foolishness of building hydroelectric plants and storage dams in the wilderness, where only jackrabbits and sagebrush grew.

Had those wise Federal investments not been made a decade ago, would we have survived the delay in building the B-17 and the B-29? It was fortunate indeed that the "dream of the future" had become a reality in time to supply the power for our war-time aluminum production—power crucial for victory—which private companies admittedly could not supply.

Your editorial writer regards the economic development of this region—scheduled during these last 14 years—as a "forcing process." Apparently he approves a forcing process by pinching-neck zealots to slow the march of Western economy. He cites with approval the House committee opinion that "deferral of certain developmental construction projects to a more propitious time" can save many millions of dollars.

Rivers that run idly to the sea instead of supplying power for in-

Business Hope In Vanity

By Malvina Lindsay

Clothes Strategy

WOMEN HAVE finally been maneuvered into a corner in the recession skirmishing. Their plight now is sad. Soon they must decide whether to let loose of their tightly held, diminishing dollars, or face their eagle-eyed friends and enemies in clothes that have "last year's look."

The fashion industry—one of this country's Big Four—has not been asleep while refrigerator and washing machine salesmen have been choosing their yell leaders. Now in its advance fall showings it has revealed its trump card against buyer resistance—a complete change in styles.

For the first time in many years, warm clothing manufacturers, women and possibly men (whose style changes in small details parallel women's) will look completely outdated in last season's outfits. With the new longer silhouette, with rounded shoulders and accentuated hips, a woman will be sartorially pre-atomic. Not only that, but there are new collars, sleeves, skirt widths, hat styles, shoe silhouettes, handbags, gloves, hosiery colors, even corsets and lingerie.

And in the August fur sales women will find style changes about which, boast manufacturers, there is "nothing pussy-footed." Hence those who bought $2000 and up mink coats during last winter's price slashing may indeed be in a dilemma.

ALL OF THIS comes at a time of strong buyer resistance to prices of ready-to-wear clothing. The situation has caused some unemployment in the garment trades, and is making buyers cautious about fall commitments. A recent poll by the National Textile Dry Goods Association showed that most American women thought $5 enough to pay for a handbag, and $20 enough for a dress.

But will this firm-jawed thrift hold up before the feminine fear of appearing a gauche, short-skirted provincial among a multitude of smart fashion followers? The fashion industry is betting that it won't. Fashion authorities believe women, and men as well, want change, that they are tired of the long monotony of wartime styles, and that the new "challenging silhouette," plus good quality, will make them sign the charge slips.

Industry representatives point out that the fall styles have been developing through the last two years, and are not just coming to a crash, and that that the public mood and the turn of the fashion cycle rather than designers' deep-laid strategy.

WHATEVER is back of it, there is no easy way out for women—or their bill paying husbands. It's going to take money to buy the new silhouette and keep the $14 billion dollar fashion industry expanding. And money for clothes production, as for food, house furnishings and motor cars, compete for it and savings melt away.

Yet—there's the matter of prestige, both business and social, so largely determined by the length of a skirt, the cut of a sleeve. There is the great American cult of smartness, growing out of mass production of clothes and the last working girls to stint on food to buy hats. There is the unhappy fact that wartime clothes are droopy and skimpy, and that people are no longer boasting of wearing the little prewar dress they found in the back of the closet.

However, as the hat industry gloomily reported, only 60 per cent of women bought new hats for Easter—a sign of financial backbone. Also there is the matter of where the money is coming from to buy the "new look." Will recent wage increases, predicted tax reductions, possible price adjustments, provide it? Even so, can the 50 per cent of families with incomes of $2000 or less afford it?

With mass forces and tastes competing for the consumer's dollar, fashion faces a major testing as to its relative importance in American life.

Food Prices

Why doesn't someone in Congress reply to the depression statements of Messrs. Bowles, Henderson, Wallace, etc.? It looks as if they want to bring on depression to justify their personal beliefs.

While it is true that OPA kept prices down, I, as a housewife, know that only the very rich could get anything to eat in the line of meat or other scarce items—the man who had the money could go to a restaurant and get a steak for $4, but the man with 50 cents went without.

Now prices are too high, but even the poor can get meat and other high priced foods—and they do get not the expensive cuts, but such things as corned beef, chuck and the lower priced cuts which properly prepared are nourishing. Better to have food at high prices than no food and low prices, a condition that prevailed when Mr. Chester Bowles was at the head of OPA. HOUSEWIFE,
New York.

Russian Weakness

I enjoyed Mr. Kuhn's article on Russia and would like to comment as follows on one point in his last article on Soviet propaganda.

He notes it would be better for the world as well as for Russia herself if she would admit her weakness and ask for help. Let me suggest the reason Russian leaders don't do this is because they judge others by themselves. Any admission of weakness on our part would be used by our enemy to increase their bargaining power to our expense. In fact that is what they call realism. Disinterested good will never enters into their way of thinking. L. GOODMAN, Washington.

By Walter Lippmann

On U. S. Propaganda

THE BEST thing, it seems to me, that Congress could do about the "Voice of America" is to vote the money for the coming fiscal year on an understanding that the whole subject will be re-examined in the next few months. It is too late in this session of Congress to study this exceedingly tricky subject enough to justify any kind of permanent legislation. There is time only for a stop-gap appropriation which will carry on the present operation while there is a thorough reconsideration of the problem. It should be possible in the next few months to call together men of experience who could advise the Administration and Congress on the purpose, scope, planning, and administration of the thing.

For there is no use arguing that an official propaganda machine in time of peace is not an abnormal undertaking for this Government, or that because we are misrepresented abroad by foreign propaganda machines it necessarily follows that we can best fight fire with fire, and must set up an official propaganda machine of our own. So while I think it would be a bad mistake to dismantle the organization which Mr. Benton operated, I think it would be at least as great a mistake to vote the money and then to treat the problem as solved and decided.

AMONG THE many things which need to be re-studied is whether the agency which operates all these activities ought to be in the Department of State. I for one do not think it should be, and it seems to me a bad arrangement to have an Assistant Secretary of State responsible for the export of news and culture and entertainment.

It is bad for the State Department and it is bad for the program. The Assistant Secretary of State cannot know what is being sent out. He cannot read all the scripts even in English. What they sound like in Russian, French, Chinese, and Arabic he will never know, especially since in broadcasting the effect so often depends on the accent, the inflections, the emphasis, and the phrasing of the broadcaster.

Yet everything sent out carries with it the imprimatur of the department which reflects the foreign policy of the United States. Now only Secretary Marshall, and a very few spokesmen directly and intimately associated with him, should speak to the world for the Department of State. To let hundreds of people write, translate, and broadcast news and opinion in the name of the Department of State can lead only to perpetual misunderstanding and endless confusion.

The agency should be put somewhere else—say in the Department of Commerce, or in the Federal Communications Commission. For while it is an instrument of foreign policy, it is by no means the only, or even the most important, instrument. There is no more reason why it should be in the Department of State than that the Army and Navy, or the Treasury, or the Export-Import Bank, or the Department of Agriculture should be in the Department of State. For they too are all in varying degrees instruments of foreign policy. But since they are not in the Department of State, not every statement by an admiral or a general or a Treasury economist is treated here and abroad as a pronouncement of United States foreign policy.

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Klutz

Pay Raise Measures Face Opposition

FAY RAISES: The Administration is set to oppose the dozen bills in the House to give each Federal worker a flat $500 pay raise.

A preliminary report says the bills can't be justified by either increased living costs or by a comparison of Federal salaries with those in private industry. When finally approved by Budget Bureau and Civil Service, the report will go to the House Civil Service Committee which is considering the legislation.

However, in each agency are top officials who still believe the Administration should make no objections to the bills, and that they should be used as a vehicle to work out some sort of pay raise legislation. Furthermore, the Administration should use this opportunity to make specific recommendations to Congress on salary adjustments.

For example, there seems to be general agreement that the $10,000 ceiling on Classification Act salaries should be lifted. This change will be recommended to Congress if the President agrees with it. But it's now doubted if an early opportunity will be had to get the problem before the President.

WAR: The 40,000 or so employees to be laid off by this department will, percentage-wise, be in these brackets:

20.5 per cent of the employees in CAF-13, 14, and 15 will be fired; 25 per cent in CAF-10, 11, and 12; 21.5 per cent in Grades 7, 8 and 9; and the remaining in the lower brackets.

It's now estimated that less than 3 per cent of the scientists will lose their jobs by the sweeping reductions.

Meantime, the department has sent a report to Congress on the replacement of civilians by military people. It says that since VJ-Day, 1200 civilians have replaced officers, and only 10 officers have replaced civilians.

But officials admit that the mass firing of civilians will force the department to put a good many military people in civilian jobs. It's hoped, they say, that this condition will be temporary.

In the Adjutant General's Office, which is to be cut 28 per cent, several hundred employees yesterday were notified of down gradings to become effective on July 1. Slashes of two and three grades weren't uncommon.

On top of that, most of these employees had earned in-grade promotions which were to become effective on July 1. They will now lose them.

NOTE: Able Bob Barnett is sixty-fifth birthday.

Off The Record

By Ed Reed

"Did your brother say why he wanted to borrow my other suit?"

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Contrast In Republican Techniques

ALBANY, N. Y.—In Washington, the Republicans in Congress are swinging the economy meat-axe. Here in New York State, a Republican Governor and the Republican Legislature have in many instances set record budget expenditures.

The State is in a flourishing condition, with a half-billion-dollar fund available for reconstruction. The Federal Government is saddled with a debt that costs five billion dollars a year just for interest. This is the kind of contrast which the Dewey team is counting on for 1948.

But the contrast on the spending side is even sharper. In his broadcast "Report to the People" on the last legislative session, Governor Dewey said: "The recreational facilities of our State—our parks, our forests, our lakes and streams—will soon be providing summer health and relaxation for many millions of our people. This year the conservation department has the largest sum ever made available for conservation work in our State. As soon as conditions permit us to go ahead, our conservation plan will be improved and our breeding program of fish and game will go forward as never before. We still have much to do in this field, in fighting pollution in our waters, in the erosion of our land, in building up our forests. It is imperative that in the years ahead we attend more vigorously and more completely to our natural resources."

THAT HAS an odd sound when you remember that Congress has cut so deeply into the budget of the Department of the Interior that it will be difficult to keep the national parks open this summer unless the cuts are restored in part at least. Similar cuts in soil conservation and soil reclamation have aroused the West.

They have caused concern here in Albany, too. The fear is that the Republican policy in Washington may permanently alienate voters in the Western States. The Republicans, as Leon Henderson recently put it, have an amazing capacity for snatching defeat from the jaws of victory.

Conservation is merely one phase of the Dewey program of spending for expansion. The former division of commerce has been made a department of the State government, and the budget has been increased from $400,000 to $1,500,000. This, too, is in direct contrast to Republican policy in Washington, where the amount asked by the Federal Department of Commerce for next year has been cut by nearly one third.

The office of director of State publicity has been created and the State's publicity budget increased from $125,000 to $800,000. A veteran member of the Dewey team, Harold Keller, is both director of publicity and deputy commissioner of commerce.

Keller has done an impressive publicity job on the State's tourist attractions. This includes a 25-minute film in color. Hundreds of prints of this film are to be shown before church, school and club groups all over the country.

EVEN MORE impressive is the publicity campaign to attract new industry to the State. Five thousand copies of a letter over Dewey's signature were sent to the heads of business firms throughout the United States. While this letter did not invite them to move their industry to

Fort Worth, Tex., May 21 (AP)—A mysterious explosion apparently originating in a water cooler in the rear of a "Jim Crow" passenger coach injured two men today.

It occurred north of Ardmore, Okla., on a Santa Fe train en route from Chicago to Galveston.

Oscar Lett, 59, Fort Worth, and W. C. Brown, 35, Ardmore, riding in the rear of the coach partitioned off to segregate whites and Negroes, were injured.

Quints Are Expected To See 50 Together

New York, May 21 (AP)—The Dionne quintuplets, who will be 13 years old May 28, got a pre-birthday assurance from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. today that the chances are better than even they will all live to celebrate their fiftieth anniversary together.

Statisticians of the insurance company estimated the chances were about 95 in 100 that all five of the Canadian girls would reach their majority, about 65 in 100 that they would all attain age 45, and more than 20 in 100 that they would all live to celebrate their sixtieth birthday.

Mysterious Explosion In Rail Car Injures 2

Fort Worth, Tex., May 21 (AP)—A mysterious explosion apparently originating in a water cooler in the rear of a "Jim Crow" passenger coach injured two men today.

It occurred north of Ardmore, Okla., on a Santa Fe train en route from Chicago to Galveston.

Oscar Lett, 59, Fort Worth, and W. C. Brown, 35, Ardmore, riding in the rear of the coach partitioned off to segregate whites and Negroes, were injured.

Churchill's Plea

By Barnet Nover

The U. S. And A United Europe

IN HIS Albert Hall speech of May 14 in which, and by no means for the first time, he pleaded eloquently for a United Europe, Winston Churchill strongly underlined the point that Europe must primarily look to herself for her salvation.

"Are we," he asked, "through our poverty and our quarrels, forever to be a burden and a danger to the rest of the world? Do we imagine that we can be carried forward indefinitely upon the shoulders—broad though they be—of the United States?"

The answer to the first question will depend, in very large measure, of course, on the degree to which the unity idea gains acceptance and achieves fulfillment in the Old World.

The answer to the second question has, so far as the immediate future is concerned, been given by Senator Vandenberg and General Marshall.

NEITHER the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee nor the Secretary of State has taken the position that what we have done up to now and are doing at present, and that is a great deal, represents the sum total of our capacity and our desire to help in the relief and the rehabilitation of Europe.

Only very recently, Dean Acheson, the Undersecretary of State, made a speech in which he strongly emphasized America's deep self-interest in world recovery.

"The facts of international life," he said, "also mean that the United States is going to have to undertake further emergency financing of foreign purchases if foreign countries are to continue to buy in 1948 and 1949 the commodities which they need to sustain life and at the same time rebuild their economies. No other country is able to bridge the gap in commodities or dollars."

Since the Acheson plan has not been repudiated, we must assume that it continues to represent the thinking of the Government and will, ultimately, be carried out.

The statements of Messrs. Vandenberg and Marshall, however, indicate that there is going to be no hurry about it. Both have said that for the present, at any rate, no further appropriations like the 400-million-dollar aid for Greece and Turkey and the 350 million dollars for general foreign relief are to be asked for.

THE ONE THING that is certain is that American resources are not inexhaustible and cannot be drawn on indefinitely.

That is all the more reason, therefore, why the aid we extend to nations abroad must be geared to a master plan and not dribbled away merely in emergency operations.

Such a plan is yet to be worked out, although the first major step in that direction was taken by Secretary Marshall in setting up a policy-planning committee to survey the world situation.

IN HIS CLEVELAND, MISS., speech Mr. Acheson stated that one of the "imperatives" of our foreign policy must be to "concentrate our emergency assistance in areas where it will be most effective in building world political and economic stability, in promoting human freedom and democratic institutions, in fostering liberal trading polities, and in strengthening the authority of the United Nations." In this particular, Mr. Acheson was speaking exactly the same language as did Winston Churchill in his Albert Hall speech.

LOOK TO WOOK

1000 . TOPS ON YOUR DIAL

Listen to Richard Bates, noted commentator and authority on world affairs, Monday thru Friday at 9:00 P. M.

There can be no question whatever that progress in the direction of uniting Europe would be wholly in line with our foreign policy aims. It would not only help in the economic rehabilitation of the Old World, which desperately needs it; it would also strengthen the democratic way of life.

The Churchill plan is, under the best of circumstances, not likely to have easy going. There are tremendous hand-caps to be overcome. There are, throughout Europe, old feuds that still fester, old hates which the war has intensified, enormous differences which will not easily be reconciled.

The nations and peoples of Europe themselves, beginning with those who have retained their freedom, must do all in their power to overcome these obstacles themselves. Unity is their only salvation. But it is imperative that the United States, for its own sake and for the sake of the world's peace, do all in its power to help. Only to our own great hurt can we, at this juncture, weary of well-doing.

"WAS EVE A BLONDE OR BRUNETTE?"

WRITE A RHYMING LAST LINE TO THIS JINGLE. YOU MAY WIN ONE OF THE 10 RCA TELEVISION SETS WILKINS TEA IS GIVING AWAY!

Has ever been answered yet... WILKINS TEA will say more! For an answer that's funny... MAIL IN THIS LINE

NAME _____ ADDRESS _____ CITY _____ STATE _____

IMPORTANT: A TOP FROM ANY SIZE PACKAGE OF WILKINS TEA or a full-size WILKINS TEA PACKAGE EACH ENTRY. MAIL TO WILKINS TEA, P.O. BOX 2706 WASHINGTON, D.C. (CLOSING DATE MAY 25, 1947)

the short way

Overnight to Glasgow, Copenhagen, Oslo, Stockholm. Dinner in the New World—breakfast next morning in Europe. No stop in the middle of night to disturb your rest. Comfortable, roomy new Douglas 4-engine planes.

scandinavian airlines system

5 round trips weekly with fast direct service to Helsinki, Moscow, Warsaw and other key cities. Your travel agent represents us locally. Consult him, Scandinavian Airlines System, 630 Fifth Avenue, New York 20, N. Y.

WASHINGTON PREMIERE Starts TODAY

JENNIFER JONES GREGORY PECK JOSEPH COTTEN LIONEL BARRYMORE LILLIAN GISH HERBERT MARSHALL WALTER HUSTON CHARLES BICKFORD

"Pearl Chavez"... the untamable, half-breed "bull" by the devil to drive men crazy.

"Lewie McCasles"... daring, jealous, spine of wrath... violent as the wind-swept prairie that gave him birth.

"Jesse McCasles"... courageous, idealistic, rebellious against the tyranny of his empire-building father.

"Sanctus McCasles"... proud... ruthless... ruler of a million acres.

"Laura Belle McCasles"... obedient wife of a fabulous empire ruler, marry mother of a strange brood.

"Rosalie Chavez"... rugged, wise-well... ill-fated one of Uncle Antonio's ancestry.

"The Siskiller"... thorny, hard-bitten... busy philosopher's "far-bung prairie."

"Sam Packer"... forthright... lonely, son of the range... innocent victim of the Texas passion!

DAVID O. SELZNICK presents

DUEL in the SUN

Technicolor

WITH A CAST OF 2500 Directed by KING VIDOR

Continuous Showings Doors Open 10:15

Loew's PALACE at 13th

PRICES FOR THIS ENGAGEMENT ONLY! AFTS. 5 P.M. 90¢ INC. TAX NIGHTS $1.25 INC. TAX CONTINUOUS SHOWING!

NAPOLÉON AND UNCLE ELM

Best Decorated Store Will Receive Prizes

Prizes for the most attractively decorated store will be awarded by Falls Church merchants in connection with Better Business Week sponsored by the Falls Church Chamber of Commerce May 26-31. Planned as a stimulus to shopping in the Falls Church area, the opening day will be marked by the dropping of leaflets from an airplane a number of which may be redeemed at specified stores for cash or merchandise.

More and more people are switching to Calvert because Calvert is mellow.

CALVERT RESERVE Blended Whiskey—44% Proof—65% Grain Neutral Spirits. Calvert Distillers Corp., New York City

THE GRAY LINE
ALL-DAY MOTOR COACH
Gettysburg
Battlefield Tour
Tours Every Monday, Wednesday, Saturday, Sunday.
Relive the Civil War's great battle. See the Gettysburg Rail, Military Park, Cemetery Ridge, Big and Little Round Tops. Government guides review this memorable battle. Leave 9:30 A.M.—8 1/2-hour trip. Aircooled coaches!
$5.75 Incl. taxes, admission, guide.
Reservations Necessary
See Your Travel Agent or Phone District 0600
Terminal—1315 N. Y. Ave. N.W., Ark. about Williamsburg and Skyline Tours!

Contamination Causes Takoma Spring Closing

Takoma Spring at Elm and Poplar aves. once considered a health spa by Takoma Park, Md., residents, has been closed and sealed by order of Mayor Youngblood because of contamination. Action was taken Monday on recommendation of R. L. Tarbett, Montgomery County public health engineer, with approval of the town council.

Students Sell Blood To Get Spending Money

Memphis, Tenn., May 20 (AP).—Authorities of at least one Memphis high school were investigating today reports that schoolboys were selling their blood to get spending money. Father John A. Elliott, principal of Catholic High School, said 23 students from his school had sold blood to a clinic for $10 a pint and that they reported that students from other schools are doing the same.

1600 Gal. Gas Tank Ready for Bombers

Akron, Ohio (AP).—When the pilot of a new long-range bomber points to just one of his gas tanks and says "fill 'er up," he'll get enough gasoline in that one rubber envelope to take an average automobile around the world at the equator. The bullet-sealing rubber-and-fabric fuel cell, just completed at the B. F. Goodrich plant here, is more than nine feet long and will hold 1600 gallons. Even so, it isn't the sole gas supply for the new air giant, as several others, all specially designed, will help carry the fuel load. The company has under construction a still larger tank of the same type, one with 2000-gallon capacity, officials revealed.

THIS SPACE
RESERVED FOR POTOMAC RIVER LINE

Heritage Whisky Stocks

Enjoy the outstanding character and flavor of Philadelphia Blend. We draw upon precious reserves to give you this special occasion whisky you can afford to enjoy regularly and often.

Philadelphia
The Heritage Whisky

BLENDED WHISKY
FAMOUS SINCE 1894

64% PROOF • 65% GRAIN NEUTRAL SPIRITS • CONTINENTAL DISTILLING CORPORATION, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Post Want Ads Produce Results

Had a SENATE
Lately?

It's the BEST Yet!

Senate Beer, with its grain-rich formula, exact brewing and careful aging, is winning even greater praise than ever before. If you haven't had a Senate lately, try it today... the brew that the people of Washington consistently name the leader.

CHRISTIAN HEURICH BREWING CO.
Washington, D. C.

THE WORLD BUYS FROM CHICAGO BY MAIL

"In my job I can see how big the Chicago mail order business is. Every day through this outgoing mail belt I see many different kinds of products being sent to all parts of the country. I know that people who order from our company get quick service because transportation from here is the best in the world. Not only do we sell in this country, but also in places like China, India and Venezuela through our export department."

"I've lived in Chicago a long time and like living and working here."

This package inspector is one of the 158,000 people employed in Chicago's four major mail order firms. Sales of these four companies for the year 1946 are reported to be a little under two billion dollars. Of the country's six major mail order companies, the four largest have found Chicago to be an ideal "home office" for their operations.

The mail order business originated in Chicago in 1872. The combination of this city's strategic location and the best delivery service in the world has substantially aided the growth of this vast business. Within a radius of 500 miles are more than a third of the nation's buyers and 39 per cent of the nation's manufacturing concerns. This tremendous market is readily reached by air, rail and highways from Chicago... "hub" of the nation.

Mail orders, as well as products from manufacturers in this area, reach their destinations quickly, aided by the huge Chicago switching district, the efficient package car service and the far-reaching motor car service. Air freight, too, speeds merchandise deliveries to all sections of the country. These same advantages which have aided the progress of mail order firms in Chicago and Northern Illinois are also beneficial, of course, to other industries.

*Name on Request

Industries locating in this area have these outstanding advantages: Railroad Center of the United States • World Airport • Inland Waterways • Geographical Center of U. S. Population • Great Financial Center • The "Great Central Market" • Food Producing and Processing Center • Leader in Iron and Steel Manufacturing • Good Labor Relations Record • 2,500,000 Kilowatts of Power • Tremendous Coal Reserves • Good Government • Good Living • Good Services for Tax Dollars. Send for free booklets containing useful information on these advantages.

This is one of a series of advertisements on the industrial, agricultural and residential advantages of Chicago and Northern Illinois. For more information, communicate with the

TERRITORIAL INFORMATION DEPARTMENT

Marquette Building—140 South Dearborn Street, Chicago 3, Illinois—Phone KANdolph 1647

COMMONWEALTH EDISON COMPANY • PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY OF NORTHERN ILLINOIS
WESTERN UNITED GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY • ILLINOIS NORTHERN UTILITIES COMPANY

176 industries selected Chicago and Northern Illinois for new plants during 1946.

'Duel' Offends Senses As It Does 'Code,' But It's Piling Up Bucks

By Richard L. Coe

IN HIS SATIRICAL NOVEL about the future, "Brave New World," Aldous Huxley describes the "feelies." These are a development of the movies which cater to all the senses. At them our descendants let themselves go on emotional binges to which only the acid prose of Huxley can do proper justice.

"Duel in the Sun," at the Palace, is the closest approach we have made to the "feelies." It shatters the eyes, splits the eardrums and assaults all the senses. It suggests that Huxley's horrifying world of the future was all too accurate.

This is the picture on which David O. Selznick has beautifully spent millions. In that curious credo of Hollywood, which believes that progress means more of everything, he has piled in the most of everything that previously has made money.

For stars he has such high-salaried people as Jennifer Jones, Gregory Peck, Lionel Barrymore, Joseph Cotten, Lillian Gish, Walter Huston, Herbert Marshall and Charles Bickford. Even the supporting players are elite-gilded.

Technically he has employed the best in the profession, such cameramen as Hal Rosson, Lee Garmes and Ray Rennahan. The Technicolor of reds, yellows and purples is the most audacious the busy Natalie Kalmus had yet devised. The lush music by Dmitri Tiomkin must have cost enough to build our poverty-stricken Capital a decent concert hall.

Only in the script department has Producer Selznick restrained his princely largesse. He has written it himself, basing it on a novel by Niven Busch, "adapted by Oliver H. P. Garrett," as the credits say, a circumlocution which never fails to confound us.

Apart from employing more horse opera clichés than any film easily recalled, exactly what Scriptwriter Selznick was striving for we

One Tenth of an Acre

New York.—The outcome of the field, Conn. In fact, the New York-Connecticut boundary line runs through Bercovici's 140-acre farm, and one tenth of an acre is in Connecticut. "Yes, I sometimes milk one of my cows there," Bercovici confessed, "but I make sure to have the front part in Connecticut and the business end in New York." This one tenth of an acre almost cost him $95,000—the amount for which the suit finally was settled.

Rebecca West, the British novelist whose coverage of the London treason trials made memorable reporting, is covering the Greenville, S. C., lynching trial for the New Yorker magazine. . . . John Garfield probably will accept the role of the Marine, which is secondary to Gregory Peck's, in the film adaptation of Laura Z. Hobson's "Gentlemen's Agreement." . . . In the four months that Ben Hecht worked in Hollywood this year, he made more money than any other person ever made there in a similar span. It was Laurence Stallings who, when asked by director Sam Wood if Ben Hecht is a Red, replied: "As long as money is being printed in its present form, you may set Ben down as a Green."

Because of Henry Luce's policy, published in his magazine—the policy that "The words of a noteworthy person are news. News cannot be copyrighted and can be reprinted by anyone after 24 hours"—a problem may arise over his ability to syndicate Winston Churchill's story, which Luce's Life magazine acquired in association with the New York Times. The Luce policy is an invitation for other editors to reprint at will, after 24 hours, and by his published declaration Mr. Luce may have stopped himself from collecting for the newsworthy Churchill reprints.

Former Gen. Charles Poletti is moving his family to a house in Lake Como, Italy, for the summer. . . . The armor which Ingrid Bergman wore in "Joan of Lorraine" was shipped to Judith Evelyn for her portrayal of Joan at Salt Lake City.

Tryve Lie gave a formal dinner party in honor of Aranha of Brazil and Lester B. Pearson of Canada. Lie opened some wine in honor of the occasion and told his guests that this was special wine which he used only in entertaining such distinguished guests. The Secretary-General of the U. N. explained that the wine was part of a 200-case hoard which the soldiers of Norway had recovered from the Germans and presented to their King. His Majesty kept 100 cases and distributed the rest among his top-ranking officials. . . . Mr. Pearson shook his head and said: "I don't think Canadian soldiers would have turned it in."

David Lean, who directed "Brief Encounter" and "Great Expectations," will produce and direct the Paul Giallico story, "The Snow Goose." Paul and Pauline Giallico will spend the summer in England writing the screen play. The movie will be made in the fall. Gabriel Pascal, who was to have produced it, withdrew because of his commitments to the new studios in Ireland which he and G. B. Shaw are establishing. . . . Paul Draper is recuperating from an attack of pneumonia at the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital in Los Angeles.

Louis Nizer flew to the Coast today to settle the more than $64 differences between his client, Phil Baker, and Ever-

York Times. The Luce policy is an invitation for other editors to reprint at will, after 24 hours, and by his published declaration Mr. Luce may have stopped himself from collecting for the newsworthy Churchill reprints.

Former Gen. Charles Poletti is moving his family to a house in Lake Como, Italy, for the summer. . . . The armor which Ingrid Bergman wore in "Joan of Lorraine" was shipped to Judith Evelyn for her portrayal of Joan at Salt Lake City.

Tryve Lie gave a formal dinner party in honor of Aranha of Brazil and Lester B. Pearson of Canada. Lie opened some wine in honor of the occasion and told his guests that this was special wine which he used only in entertaining such distinguished guests. The Secretary-General of the U. N. explained that the wine was part of a 200-case hoard which the soldiers of Norway had recovered from the Germans and presented to their King. His Majesty kept 100 cases and distributed the rest among his top-ranking officials. . . . Mr. Pearson shook his head and said: "I don't think Canadian soldiers would have turned it in."

David Lean, who directed "Brief Encounter" and "Great Expectations," will produce and direct the Paul Giallico story, "The Snow Goose." Paul and Pauline Giallico will spend the summer in England writing the screen play. The movie will be made in the fall. Gabriel Pascal, who was to have produced it, withdrew because of his commitments to the new studios in Ireland which he and G. B. Shaw are establishing. . . . Paul Draper is recuperating from an attack of pneumonia at the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital in Los Angeles.

Louis Nizer flew to the Coast today to settle the more than $64 differences between his client, Phil Baker, and Ever-

Show Time

STAGE
National—"Love for Love," John Gielgud's London company in Congreve's classic comedy, at 8:30 p. m.
SCREEN
Palace—"Duel in the Sun," David O. Selznick's whopping color yarn of sex in the wide-open spaces, Jennifer Jones and Gregory Peck, at 10:50 a. m., 1:30, 4:10, 6:50 and 9:30 p. m.
Earle—"Calcutta," Alan Ladd and hi-jinks in the Orient, at 11:40 a. m., 1:40, 3:45, 5:50, 7:55 and 10 p. m.
Capitol—"Blaze of Noon," William Holden, Sterling Hayden and Anne Baxter in a story of aviation's early days, at 10:40 a. m., 1:30, 4:20, 7:05 and 9:55 p. m. Stage shows at 12:35, 3:40, 6:30 and 9:15 p. m.
RKO-Keith—"The Egg and I," Claudette Colbert as the heroine of Betty MacDonald's best-selling book, at 11:15 a. m., 1:20, 3:25, 5:30, 7:35 and 9:40 p. m.
Metropolitan—"Stairway to Heaven," David Niven and Kim Hunter in a fantasy of a RAF flier and a Yank Wac, at 11:15 a. m., 1:15, 3:25, 5:30, 7:35 and 9:40 p. m.
Columbia—"California," Ray Milland and Barbara Stanwyck in a Technicolor Western, at 11:35 a. m., 1:35, 3:35, 5:30, 7:30 and 9:35 p. m.
Little—"The Well-Digger's Daughter," benefit premiere, at 8:30 p. m.
Hippodrome—"Brief Encounter," Noel Coward's romance, fine adult film, at 2:15, 4:05, 5:55, 7:45 and 9:35 p. m.

Pix—"Voice of the Whistler," at 2:50, 5:50 and 8:45 p. m. "The Prisoner of Zenda," at 3:50, 6:50 and 9:45 p. m.
Trans Lux—Short subjects and newsreels, continuous, 10:15 a. m. to midnight.
Open Air—"It Happened Tomorrow," at 11:05 p. m. "In Old Sacramento," at 9:25 p. m.
Ambassador—"Calcutta," at 1:30, 3:30, 5:35, 7:35 and 9:45 p. m.

Don't Lose Sleep
from itching of simple piles or dry eczema—get blisful relief with the bland, soothing medication in
RESINOL OINTMENT

Don't Lose Sleep
from itching of simple piles or dry eczema—get blisful relief with the bland, soothing medication in
RESINOL OINTMENT

HEADACHE
Cephalin contains 4 specially selected ingredients that work together to give quick relief from headache and neuritis. Follow directions on label.

CAPUDINE

Gas on Stomach
Relieved in 5 minutes or double your money back. When excess stomach acid causes indigestion, outgassing the gas, your stomach and bowels, doesn't merely prescribe the fastest-acting antacid known for symptomatic relief—it restores the balance of the stomach's acid. No inactive, harmful drugs. Follow directions on label. BELL-ANS for Acid Indigestion 25¢

Kentucky's Bouquet Bourbon
Old Fitzgerald
BOTTLED IN BOND
Genuine Sour Mash
100 Proof . . . Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey
Stitzel-Weller Distillery, Inc. • Louisville, Kentucky

F&S PILSENER BEER
A SATISFYING DRINK OF MODERATION
TUMMANN & SCHNITZ BREWING CO.
Bismarck, N.D.
DISTRIBUTED BY
QUALITY BEVERAGE DIST. CO.
WASHINGTON
WHOLESALE DIST. CO.
FALLS CHURCH

The burn is out
The flavor's in Mix 'em smooth with Distilled London Gin
Gladstone Gin
Distilled from 100% Grain Neutral Spirits
85 Proof
Moore Distilling Corp., Philadelphia, Pa.

don't rightly know. It seems to be a sort of Texan "Gone With the Wind," which settles on picturing the conflict between what's known as Sacred and Profane Love.

The Story
Jennifer Jones is the daughter of a white gambler and an Indian dancer. When the gambler, Herbert Marshall, tires of his wife's affairs with other men, he kills her (Tilly Losch), accepts hanging and sends Jennifer off to the keeping of the girl he should have married.

This turns out to be Lillian Gish, now a faded Southern belle type, cowed by her grasping husband, a feudal lord played by Lionel Barrymore, and her wilful son, Gregory Peck. Her only consolation is their other son, Joseph Cotten, an upright man who's taken to legal honesty.

Miss Jones' arrival raises temperatures at Spanish Bit Ranch. Immediately her spiritual instincts are taken over by the noble Cotten, but her bodily passions go to Gregory, all of her, all of her, all of her.

There is the struggle between the empirically-minded Barrymore and the struggling United States Government over the new railroad's right-of-way and Cotten takes the side of the law, abetted by the most timely arrival of the United States Cavalry ever screened.

A Bloody Love-Death
But what has most beguiled Scriptwriter Selznick is the fleshly passion between Miss Jones and Peck. At the mere sight of Peck, all Jennifer's promises to Noble Cotten, Gentle Gish and Devil-driven Walter Huston (a free preacher who recalls Sadie Thompson's missionary) fly from her heart. She grovels in the dust, lies on beds, hillside and in the water, fighting her physical temptations.

Finally these two have their duel in the sun, with Jennifer resolved to kill her fendish tempter. She shoots him, he shoots her and then calls to her that he loves her, loves her, loves her. Jennifer slithers across the sun-baked rocks to die in her lover's arms.

Exactly how this romantic finale in death proves that passion doesn't pay eludes us.

In short, besides being the most half-drawn things in moviedom, "Duel in the Sun" is also the most hypocritical. We're not objecting on prudish grounds, for as a matter of fact this lurid junk is rather fun in its childish way, but we are objecting on the grounds of Hollywood's much-vaunted self-imposed code.

That code was invoked, by the way, to dilute the Sinkiller role Huston plays. Church groups objected to suggesting that anyone to do with religion should be pictured as the lecherous gospel shouter Huston skillfully plays. Yet even watered down (and with a timid prologue to apologize for him), Huston's Sinkiller is the truest character in the picture. Without the code as it now stands, the film probably would present us with characters that truly live and are not the puppets filmhand's characters have become.

Blatant Hypocrisy
The film is probably within the strict letter of the rules, but in spirit it is miles outside. It appeals to physical instincts as has no other film made within the code. It is purposely cheap, base and sensational in what it pictures and suggests.

Again, we don't object strictly to that, for life is often exactly that. But Hollywood insists on conforming its pictures to rules, and when a wildly expensive film makes mockery of those petty demands, the effect is blatant hypocrisy. And hypocrisy is what's most wrong with the world today.

Oh yes, "Duel in the Sun" will make money, just as it was designed to do. In its first week alone, in 180 theaters throughout this country, it has taken in 2½ million dollars, of which half goes to pay its cost. Selznick can easily afford to laugh at any adverse criticism the film receives.

There are some good moments in the extravaganza. Apart from Huston's Sinkiller, there is a delightful performance by Butterfly McQueen as a dusky servant named Vashti. The countless horses, horses, horses are as stunningly beautiful as ever. The scenery and the sunsets have enough color to outshine a circus poster. The settings are fashioned with Hollywood's accepted zeal—including a "Border-town Cafe" about the size of Union Station.

Yes, "Duel in the Sun" is quite a picture. But what's happened to that code?

But what has most beguiled Scriptwriter Selznick is the fleshly passion between Miss Jones and Peck. At the mere sight of Peck, all Jennifer's promises to Noble Cotten, Gentle Gish and Devil-driven Walter Huston (a free preacher who recalls Sadie Thompson's missionary) fly from her heart. She grovels in the dust, lies on beds, hillside and in the water, fighting her physical temptations.

Finally these two have their duel in the sun, with Jennifer resolved to kill her fendish tempter. She shoots him, he shoots her and then calls to her that he loves her, loves her, loves her. Jennifer slithers across the sun-baked rocks to die in her lover's arms.

Exactly how this romantic finale in death proves that passion doesn't pay eludes us.

In short, besides being the most half-drawn things in moviedom, "Duel in the Sun" is also the most hypocritical. We're not objecting on prudish grounds, for as a matter of fact this lurid junk is rather fun in its childish way, but we are objecting on the grounds of Hollywood's much-vaunted self-imposed code.

That code was invoked, by the way, to dilute the Sinkiller role Huston plays. Church groups objected to suggesting that anyone to do with religion should be pictured as the lecherous gospel shouter Huston skillfully plays. Yet even watered down (and with a timid prologue to apologize for him), Huston's Sinkiller is the truest character in the picture. Without the code as it now stands, the film probably would present us with characters that truly live and are not the puppets filmhand's characters have become.

Blatant Hypocrisy
The film is probably within the strict letter of the rules, but in spirit it is miles outside. It appeals to physical instincts as has no other film made within the code. It is purposely cheap, base and sensational in what it pictures and suggests.

Again, we don't object strictly to that, for life is often exactly that. But Hollywood insists on conforming its pictures to rules, and when a wildly expensive film makes mockery of those petty demands, the effect is blatant hypocrisy. And hypocrisy is what's most wrong with the world today.

Oh yes, "Duel in the Sun" will make money, just as it was designed to do. In its first week alone, in 180 theaters throughout this country, it has taken in 2½ million dollars, of which half goes to pay its cost. Selznick can easily afford to laugh at any adverse criticism the film receives.

There are some good moments in the extravaganza. Apart from Huston's Sinkiller, there is a delightful performance by Butterfly McQueen as a dusky servant named Vashti. The countless horses, horses, horses are as stunningly beautiful as ever. The scenery and the sunsets have enough color to outshine a circus poster. The settings are fashioned with Hollywood's accepted zeal—including a "Border-town Cafe" about the size of Union Station.

Yes, "Duel in the Sun" is quite a picture. But what's happened to that code?

But what has most beguiled Scriptwriter Selznick is the fleshly passion between Miss Jones and Peck. At the mere sight of Peck, all Jennifer's promises to Noble Cotten, Gentle Gish and Devil-driven Walter Huston (a free preacher who recalls Sadie Thompson's missionary) fly from her heart. She grovels in the dust, lies on beds, hillside and in the water, fighting her physical temptations.

Finally these two have their duel in the sun, with Jennifer resolved to kill her fendish tempter. She shoots him, he shoots her and then calls to her that he loves her, loves her, loves her. Jennifer slithers across the sun-baked rocks to die in her lover's arms.

Exactly how this romantic finale in death proves that passion doesn't pay eludes us.

THE PUBLIC BE DAMNED!

Paying Guest...

or Unwelcome Pest?

Now You can do something about Railroad Courtesy

Let's be honest—you may be a paying guest on the railroads, but you're not always treated like one. Now the Federation for Railway Progress—through its new Passenger Relations Department—gives you the opportunity you've long wanted, to correct the situation!

Courtesy costs nothing. No matter how badly off a railroad may be financially, courtesy is one thing it should be able to offer you.

Yet you occasionally find yourself "pushed around"—told off when you've neglected to buy a ticket, treated as if you were a moron when you ask to have a complicated time-table explained to you; looked upon with high disdain if you object to having your food thrown at you in a diner.

Let's be honest on all sides

A lot of this came about during the war—when railroads, and railroad employees, had almost too much to do, and when many regular employees were away fighting for their country.

But the war's over now—and railroad managements, as well as many railroad employees themselves, are aware of the pressing need to do something about railroad courtesy.

Naturally, you can't expect these hard-working people to act as your "personal servants" or to disobey railroad rules or regulations. But you can expect them to be civil in their treatment of you.

Announcing the FRP COURTESY AWARD!

To further its drive for courtesy, the Federation for Railway Progress will make annually—beginning with the year 1947—the FRP COURTESY AWARD, to be given the road, which has performed the outstanding service to the public during the year.

The FRP's Passenger Relations Department

To give the public a voice in improving railroad courtesy, the Federation for Railway Progress—organized this year to bring about long needed improvements in railroading—has set up a Passenger Relations Department. This Department will assist you, and the railroads, in the following ways:

1. The FRP's new Passenger Relations Department will provide FREE—to all who write in for them—special COURTESY REPORT cards, with space for filling in all factual information concerning an incident, good or bad, which you wish to report (or you can make reports on your own stationery).

2. When sent to the FRP, the complaint or compliment registered with the Passenger Relations Department will immediately be brought to the attention of the appropriate road in order that proper action can be taken.

You can obtain your COURTESY REPORT cards now—by filling in the coupon and sending it at once to the Federation's offices.

As you may know, the Federation for Railway Progress is a non-profit organization whose sole purpose is to improve railroading for everyone concerned—the travelling public, railroad stockholders, labor, railroad shippers, suppliers and railroad managements. For only as railroading is improved can all of these benefit. The Federation's entire means of financial support is from these very sources.

The Public be Served!

So won't you help further the work of the Federation by joining its crusade for better railroading today? A general membership costs only $2—and includes a full year's subscription to the Federation's highly readable no-punches-pulled monthly magazine.

Help bring about the kind of railroading you want in this country. Only the pressure of public opinion—your opinion—can do it. Sign and send the coupon below today!

MAIL THIS TODAY!

FEDERATION FOR RAILWAY PROGRESS
Terminal Tower
Cleveland 1, Ohio

☐ Please send me a set of your FREE COURTESY REPORT cards at once!

☐ At the same time I do (do not) wish to be enrolled in the membership group listed below and an enclosing membership dues in the amount of $ for the year ending May 31, 1948. (Make checks payable to TREASURER, Federation for Railway Progress.) Please check membership group in which you voluntarily classify yourself.

☐ MEMBER (open to any individual) minimum dues $2.00

☐ CONTRIBUTING MEMBER owner of railroad securities in value of ..... less than $5,000 minimum dues $2.00

..... $5,000 to $10,000 minimum dues $5.00

..... $10,000 to $50,000 minimum dues $25.00

..... over $50,000 minimum dues $50.00

☐ Please send information on memberships for banks, brokers, shippers, trustees, investment houses or trusts, insurance companies, railroad suppliers, railroad labor unions and railroads.

NAME

ADDRESS

CITY AND STATE

FEDERATION FOR RAILWAY PROGRESS

ROBERT R. YOUNG, Chairman

On Atom Point

was, however, that the phrase shows the big countries agree that the Security Council's powers extend at least to preparatory stages of atomic control.

At the same time it was announced that David E. Lillenthal, chairman of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, would address U. N. atomic experts at a closed meeting June 2 on the organization and staffing of an international control agency.

Today's slight bit of progress was hammered out in 3 1/2 hours of closed debate among atomic commission delegates sitting as a working committee. The proposed amendment would change, provided that the control organ or agency would operate "within the United Nations" rather than within the framework of the Security Council.

Gromyko asserted once more—"As I have said so often"—that Russia does not insist on applying the Security Council veto power to the "day-to-day" operations of the Atomic Control Agency, but once more delegates failed to smoke the Soviet delegate out on how much of the agency's operations Russia would consider day-to-day.

Gromyko said Monday night, however, that Russia has not budged on its refusal to accept unlimited international inspection to detect atomic violations.

Lords Approve Rail Bill

London, May 21 (AP).—The predominantly Conservative House of Lords approved in principle to-night the Labor government's bill to nationalize railroads, inland waterways and long-distance trucking.

The bill was read for the second time and there was no vote. After a third reading the legislation becomes law with the King's assent.

U. S. Aide Returning

Bucharest, May 21 (AP).—Burton Y. Berry, U. S. political representative to Rumania since 1944, relinquished his Rumanian assignment today and left by plane for Washington.

National Weather Summary

McMahon Asks Unified Action

If Reds Reject Atom Control

(United Nations Atomic Commission) negotiations break down. He admitted that the plan was fraught with danger, not satisfactory, and infinitely less so to be preferred than agreement on the American plan for a world development and inspection agency proposed in the United Nations.

But, he insisted, it was preferable to the only other course of action which were available if Russia finally and completely rejected a world control agreement. McMahon listed three other alternatives, none of which he believed could be accepted:

1. We could "openly and fearfully" launch ourselves upon an atomic arms race with Russia. The result would be constant fear of the world. The defense necessary would be dispersal of our cities at an expense which would disrupt our entire social and economic system. It could be accomplished only under a Fascist regime. In the end it would offer no near security, for we could still be conquered by atomic bombs or radioactive poisons.

2. We could proceed with the American control plan in the U. N., without Russia's participating. But this "would give us no control where we need it most." It would, in fact, make atomic secrets more easily available to Russian espionage and leave Russia free to produce atomic weapons without restraints.

3. We could launch an immediate atomic attack on Russia, acting on the theory that since there is no defense against atomic war, we should be the first to take the offense. But America rejects the idea of "imposing an atomic Pearl Harbor."

McMahon's fourth alternative, and the one he reluctantly recommended, would have the effect of bypassing the United Nations. It called for an agreement for the nations of the world, presumably minus Russia, to vote on a resolution declaring that the American plan for an international atomic authority was the world plan. All peace-loving nations would be invited to adhere to the plan, and "to declare that any nation which refuses by a specified date to accept the plan... is thereby an aggressor."

McMahon implied, although he did not say so specifically, that the nations which adhered to the pact could proceed at once in warlike action against the "aggressor." This was his reasoning:

In the atomic age, no overt act is necessary to commit aggression. Since atomic energy is "inherently dangerous," failure to give evidence of peaceful intentions with regard to it "is of itself evidence of aggressive intentions."

"To refuse to cooperate with the rest of the world in the search might be "the best way to deal with a dangerous situation," McMahon nevertheless admitted to newsmen later that it was "not very good."

"In anyone has a better alternative, should Russia fail to agree on world control, I will guarantee to become his first disciple," he added.

McMahon argued first that Hiroshima put an end to traditional concepts of sovereignty, and second, that the American plan actually was an offer to share with all nations our present knowledge of atomic developments.

Hemorrhoids! Hurt Like Sin! Now I Gripe

Thousands change gripes to grins. Use a doctor's formula to relieve discomfort of PILES: sent druggists by noted Dr. J. C. Thompson. Surprising QUICK palliative relief of pain, irritation, tenderness, itching, swelling. Use doctor's way. Get tube Thompson's Minor's Rectal Ointment or Rectal Suppositories today. Follow label directions. For sale at all drug stores everywhere.

Britain Seeks Share

Of U. S. Coal Exports

London, May 21 (AP).—Britain applied today for a share of the coal the United States is exporting to Europe. This posed a problem for the European Coal Organization (ECO), a 17-nation group which has been allocating scarce fuel supplies since 1945.

After a day-long meeting, ECO Secretary-General Basil Alcock said no agreement had been reached on the United Kingdom request.

Now Many Wear FALSE TEETH

With More Comfort

PASTETH, a pleasant alkaline (non-acid) powder, holds false teeth more firmly. To eat and talk in more comfort, just sprinkle a little PASTETH on your plates. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Checks plate odor (denture breath). Get PASTETH at any drug store.

Every day more folks are switching to Calvert because Calvert is milder.

CALVERT RESERVE Blended Whiskey—84.9 Proof—65% Grain Neutral Spirits. Calvert Distillers Corp., New York City

LOOK in the YELLOW PAGES of your Telephone Directory

4 Convicts Die in Break

San Salvador, El Salvador, May 21 (AP).—Four convicts in the San Miguel jail were killed and eight wounded during an attempted jail break today. Four prison guards gained the outside, but five were injured. Seven succeeded in recapturing.

Great Characters of 1788...

From an engraving of youngest known portrait of Thomas Jefferson, painted by John Adams.

Thomas Jefferson was famous not only as a statesman. He was also a distinguished inventor, architect, and educator. His remarkable character brought success to everything he undertook. Unusual character, too, distinguishes "Carstairs Est. 1788"—famed as the most luxurious blend ever bottled!

When you taste its magnificent flavor and unusually satisfying quality, you'll know why it is preferred by whiskey connoisseurs everywhere. Why not treat yourself to this exceptional whiskey tonight?

CARSTAIRS Est. 1788 The Whiskey of Character for The Man who Cares

BLENDED WHISKEY, 90 Proof, 65% Grain Neutral Spirits. Carstairs Bros. Distilling Co., Inc., Baltimore, Md.

"CALLING CAR 84!"

Your emergency calls get action—FAST action—because PEPCO'S service trucks have 2-way Radio communications!

Faster than the snap of a finger, our trouble dispatchers can contact service cars and call with the crowd. The truck nearest the trouble area is sent on its way in a matter of minutes. 2-Way Radio means speed in correcting trouble—in restoring your electric service if interrupted by storms, floods, fires, automobile accidents. 2-Way Radio achieves a new efficiency peak. 2-Way Radio is another example of Pepco's alertness to progress... Pepco's ability to provide you with low-cost, dependable Electric Service!

Providing you with Electricity is a very human job accomplished by 2500 skilled men and women

POTOMAC ELECTRIC POWER COMPANY 10TH AND E STREETS, N. W.

Nothing Tastier Than

Real All-Bran Muffins

Mix up a batch in a jiffy! No wonder everybody loves Kellogg's All-Bran Muffins—plain! So tasty! 3 tablespoons 1/2 cup milk shortening 1 cup sifted 1/2 cup sugar or molasses 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder 1 egg 1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran Blend shortening and sugar or molasses. Add egg; beat well. Stir in Kellogg's All-Bran and milk. Let cook until most of moisture is taken up. Add sifted dry ingredients to stiff mixture. Stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.), 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 9 tasty muffins.

Good Nutrition! Real All-Bran is made from 100% VITAL OAT. LAYERS of bran wheat—served daily as a cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

THE VAGARIES of baseball were never better illustrated than by the three little figures accompanying the name of George McQuinn in the batting averages. They show him hitting a hot .366 and leading the American League batting race, a state of affairs which is at once gratifying and embarrassing to President Larry MacPhail of the Yankees.

A couple of months ago, MacPhail, detecting what he thought was a first base weakness of the Yankees, offered what he called half of his ball club for Mickey Vernon, of the Nats, who had closed out the 1946 season as the league-leading hitter with a .353 average. The Yankees, MacPhail reasoned, needed a first baseman badly, and he offered Washington four players—Outfielder Johnny Lindell, Pitcher Joe Page, Third Baseman Bill Johnson, and First Baseman Nick Eiten, to the Nats for Vernon.

The luckiest thing to happen to the Yankees was Clark Griffith's refusal to make the deal, a good one from the Nats' standpoint, but rejected because of Griffith's hatred of MacPhail and his determination not to strengthen MacPhail's club. Look at Vernon now. He's batting an anemic .260, and the veteran McQuinn, who always was one of the better-fielding first basemen in the league, is the only Yankee regular who is hitting more than .300, the bulwark of the club.

THE YANKEES otherwise, however, are not doing well, and I have it from my New York operative that an explosion is brewing on the New York club. "The wild man is getting wilder," he reports, and that, of course, means MacPhail who is not one to temporize with failure. The Yanks just dropped three in a row to the Cleveland Indians, and any day now MacPhail is likely to crack down, probably on Bucky Harris, his manager.

Harris didn't want the managerial job of the Yankees to start with, and the belief is now in New York that he isn't long for it. He wasn't MacPhail's type of manager in the beginning, what with his calm reaction to defeat in contrast to the top-blowing antics of Leo Durocher, who was MacPhail's favorite at Brooklyn. A good bet is that before the season is out, Harris will again move upstairs to the front office and Charley Dressen will take over the managerial job.

Dressen was a MacPhail plant from the moment he signed as one of Harris' coaches. He's a MacPhail man, dating from their Cincinnati days together. MacPhail brought him to Brooklyn, and then transferred him to the Yankees as one of Harris' coaches despite the fact that Harris never had any fondness for Dressen in previous seasons, and used to call him a "MacPhail stooge."

MACPHAIL ISN'T quite the genius he was last season when the Yankees set new records for attendance. The other day, on a Sunday furthermore, the Yankees drew only 26,000 customers, despite the fact that Bob Feller was pitching, and the trade he masterminded with the Cleveland Indians last winter had a horrible kick-back for the Yankees.

Cleveland swept a three-game series with the Yankees this week, and MacPhail's great maneuver of last winter when he traded Joe Gordon to the Indians, blew up in his face. Gordon broke up one game with a two-bagger, and later on in the series the Indians licked Alie Reynolds who was obtained by the Yankees in the swap. When the Yankees threatened in the eighth inning the Cleveland relief pitcher who subdued 'em was none other than Al Gettel, who was thrown into the deal by the Yankees as something to boot, like the thirteenth bun in a baker's dozen.

It used to be the theory that when a ballplayer joined the Yankees the mere donning of a Yankee uniform with the words "New York" written across his chest worked magic on that performer. But with Gordon's trade to Cleveland it has worked in reverse thus far. With the Indians, Gordon has been a superlative player this season, and happy in his new surroundings, a contrast to his discontent with the MacPhail-operated Yankees last year.

WHAT THE Yankees did was to trade away the man who now is the best second baseman in the league, on the theory that George Stinson was a better second baseman. Gordon is hitting .298 for Cleveland and forming the best double-play combination in the league alongside of Lou Boudreau, while the Yanks are struggling along with Stinson, a .198 hitter who is being removed for a pinch hitter almost daily as the sixth-place Yanks try to win a ball game.

No thinking fan is blaming Harris for MacPhail's mistakes. When the Big Shot of the Yankees wants to make a trade, Harris, or no other underling, can dissuade him. The Yanks, with Harris, are getting good division, but typical of Harris' luck was the development on Tuesday when his Yanks blew a 4-2 game to Cleveland.

The first two Yankee hitters in the first inning opened with singles against Don Black, Cleveland pitcher. Harris played the percentages and with Charley Keller up, went for a big inning at the outset. Keller unhappily drove into a double play and the Yanks got nothing. A bit later, Keller hit a futile home run with nobody on base. Harris had the percentages going for him but they didn't work. With MacPhail bossing the works, I think Harris is merely the Guest Manager of the Yankees, until Dressen moves into the job.

Talk of Bee Bee's Prowess Fails to Worry Hursey

If those mounting reports from Summit Hill, N. J., praising Bee Bee Washington are designed to discomfite Smuggy Hursey, they're a dud.

The Smug, getting in his practice licks at Turner's Arena for Monday night's Griffith Stadium outing while Washington is training in major league style in Jersey, isn't.

Yesterday, the word came down from Jersey that Double B looked sharp in a six-round drill with a bit worried about all the talk. Charlie Fusari and Ike Williams. Last week the word was that Bee was hot stuff in several drills with Georgie Abrams.

Smug Predicts Victory
"That's nothing," drawled Hursey. "That gymnasium stuff don't count. I used to be a pretty good gym fighter myself, but didn't do too good when the fight rolled around. I'm ready now, I feel fine, got a lot of zip. Don't like to predict anything about a fight, but I feel pretty sure that I got enough to take Bee Bee."

Hursey, you'll remember, had a real mad on against Aaron Perry and demonstrated it in his 10-round victory over Aaron May 5. It's different with Bee Bee, though. Smuggy likes Bee Bee, but not enough to let Washington whip him next Monday night.

Hursey's rise has attracted not only local interest, but New York fight people are beginning to hear tell of Elijah Hursey, too. Sol Strauss, the Mr. Big of Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century outfit, is hurrying for outdoor bouts this summer and will be in Washington for a look-see at Monday night's party. Wants to use Hursey—or Bee Bee—on one of his shows.

LaMotta to Get Look-See
Another gentleman who's interested in both fighters—Jake LaMotta—will probably be a ring-sider. LaMotta, the uncrowned king of the middleweights, may be matched with the winner, but wants to see what he's getting into before making a move.

All of these persons will be "guests," but enough people are buying tickets to make MacPhail-maker Gabe Menendez think in terms of a $70,000 house.—MORRIS SIEGEL.

Coolidge Wins Playoff Opener, 4 to 2

Cubs Edge Phils, 2-1, Regain League Lead

Chicago, May 21 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 2 to 1 today, sweeping their two-game series and taking undisputed possession of first place in the National League.

Doyle Lade, with the help of reliever Emil Kuh, who came in the ninth, took credit for the victory—the Cubs' third straight and the fifth in a row over the Phils.

Lade, stocky Shreveport rookie, would have had a shutout in a duel with Al Jurisich if it hadn't been for an error by Bill Nicholson in the ninth. Howie Schultz singled with on out and Nicholson made a two-base miff of Lee Handley's fly. Lade then walked Don Padgett on four pitches, the last a wild pitch on which Schultz scored. Kush then took over to get the side out.

Lade was touched for six hits in registering his third victory. Jurisich also yielded only six safeties. Stan Hack and Andy Pafko paired doubles for one run in the fourth and Len Merullo counted in the fifth when he singled and moved around on a fielders choice and two outs.

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Total 24 6 24 8
a. Walked for Verban in ninth.
b. Run for Padgett in ninth.
c. Popped out for Jurisich in ninth.

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Philadelphia AB H O A Chicago AB H O A
Rosen, 5 0 1 0 Black, 2 1 0 2
Walker, 4 2 4 0 Willis, 1 0 1 0
Eaton, 4 0 3 0 Pafko, 2 2 3 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Wynne, 3 1 3 0 C. Wright, 1 1 3 1
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 N. Schultz, 2 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Johnson, 2 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Merullo, 2 2 2 4
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Kush, 0 0 0 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Lade, 2 0 0 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Totals 29 6 27 13

Players Speak Up—Protest Bill

St. Louis, May 21 (AP).—The legality of Sam Breadon's decision in scheduling two games between the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals on the afternoon and night of June 14 following a night game between the same teams the day before was questioned today by Dixie Walker, National League representative to the player-management committee. Breadon is the president of the Cardinals.

"I think Ford Frick (president of the National League) will have to rule on it," Walker said. "There's a new restriction against playing double-headers following a night game. A day and night game in one day seems like a double-header to me."

In New York, Frick said that the matter had not yet "been brought to my attention and I don't know anything about it. If it comes up to me for a ruling I will rule on it."

Cards Lose To Dodgers In 10th, 4-3

St. Louis, May 21 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers salvaged the final game of a disastrous road trip today by noosing out the last place St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3, in ten innings.

Cookie Lavagetto broke up the game by singling after Pete Reiser and Carl Furillo tapped Harry "the Cat" Brecheen for one-baggers in the extra frame. The largest St. Louis week-day crowd of the season, 16,249 fans, witnessed the game.

The victory was the Dodgers' fifth in 13 games since they left the friendly confines of Ebbets Field nearly two weeks ago in first place in the National League.

Brecheen jumped on Brecheen for single runs in each of the first two innings but the Cards poked away at Joe Hatten and tied the score in the fifth on Del Rice's homer, a walk, sacrifice and Terry Moore's single.

Bruce Edwards connected for the circuit in the sixth to shove the Dodgers ahead again only to have the Red Birds deadlock the issue in the eighth with Ron Northey singling home the tying run.

Brooklyn AB H O A St. Louis AB H O A
Reiser, 5 0 0 0 Brecheen, 4 1 4 2
Furillo, 4 0 0 0 Must, 1 0 1 0
Robison, 1 4 0 0 Must, 1 0 1 0
Purcell, 1 0 1 0 Must, 1 0 1 0
Bumgarner, 3 1 3 0 Must, 1 0 1 0
Schultz, 1 4 1 3 Must, 1 0 1 0
Handley, 1 4 3 2 Must, 1 0 1 0
Verban, 2 3 1 2 Must, 1 0 1 0
Padgett, 0 0 0 0 Must, 1 0 1 0
Haltrecht, 0 0 0 0 Must, 1 0 1 0
Jurisich, 2 0 0 0 Must, 1 0 1 0
Adams, 1 0 0 0 Must, 1 0 1 0

Bennings

Havre de Grace

Dear Folks:

A handy mile and a furlong workout on a muddy track accomplished in 1:59.2-5 has led to the belief that Walter M. Jeffords' Trymenow may be added to the list of starters in Saturday's $20,000 Havre de Grace Handicap at a mile and a furlong.

Trymenow has had a couple of tighteners in earlier races this spring and now seems to be approaching the form which would make the son of Menow and Rambler Rose a stout contender for top honors in the Havre de Grace.

Turbine, owned by the estate of Mrs. H. Lebowitz and Mrs. E. H. Augustus' Blue Yonder, who finished one-two a length apart in Tuesday's feature, are considered certain starters in the week-end fixture with Blue Yonder moving up a great deal if it happens to be muddy when the stake comes up for decision.

A year ago Blue Yonder won the Chesapeake trial and the Potomac Stakes over the local course as off-tracks prevailed.

Kings' Ranch's Flash Burn, winner of the Gliding Handicap at Pimlico, turned in a mile and a furlong drill in 1:57.2/5 to indicate he'll be at his best for the Havre de Grace. The drill was over a muddy track.

Trainer Guy Lunsford this morning postponed a scheduled breeze for K. A. O'Connor's Statesman, a night track will be fast tomorrow for the workout. Statesman requires solid footing for his best efforts. . . BILL.

Bennings Havre de Grace selections:

1-Balcaratus, Snow King 2d.

2-Rough Ordy, Hall Vic, Ace

3-Cuban Bill, Best Bid, Ab-bay's First.

4-Bonyik, Golden Arrow, Reno.

5-Black Gang, Ariel Song.

6-DARBY DIEPPE, Ned Can-ron, Split the Wind.

7-Spanish Point, Winged Phari-ah, Beauzard.

8-Valinda Bena, Timoli, Jab

Me.

Havre de Grace

FIRST RACE—One mile and seventeenth mile, $20,000; for maidens 3-year-olds and up. Post time, 1:59.2-5.

1-Balcaratus (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

2-Rough Ordy (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

3-Cuban Bill (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

4-Bonyik (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

5-Black Gang (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

6-DARBY DIEPPE (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

7-Spanish Point (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

8-Valinda Bena (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

9-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

10-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

11-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

12-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

13-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

14-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

15-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

16-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

17-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

18-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

19-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

20-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

21-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

22-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

23-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

24-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

25-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

26-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

27-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

28-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

29-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

30-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

31-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

32-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

33-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

34-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

35-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

36-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

37-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

38-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

39-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

40-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

41-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

42-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

43-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

44-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

45-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

46-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

47-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

48-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

49-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

50-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

51-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

52-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

53-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

54-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

55-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

56-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

57-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

58-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

59-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

60-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

61-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

62-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

63-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

64-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

65-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

66-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

67-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

68-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

69-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

70-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

71-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

72-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

73-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

74-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

75-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

76-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

77-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

78-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

79-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

80-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

81-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

82-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

83-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

84-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

85-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

86-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

87-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

88-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

89-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

90-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

91-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

92-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

93-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

94-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

95-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

96-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

97-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

98-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

99-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

100-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

101-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

102-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

103-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

104-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

105-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

106-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

107-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

108-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

109-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

110-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

111-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

112-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

113-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

114-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

115-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

116-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

117-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

118-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

119-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

120-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

121-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

122-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

123-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

124-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

125-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

126-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

127-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

128-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

129-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

130-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

131-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

132-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

133-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

134-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

135-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

136-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

137-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

138-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

139-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

140-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

141-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

142-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

143-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

144-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

145-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

146-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

147-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

148-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

149-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

150-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

151-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

152-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

153-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

154-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

155-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

156-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

157-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

158-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

159-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

160-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

161-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

162-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

163-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

164-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

165-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

166-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

167-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

168-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

169-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

170-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

171-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

172-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

173-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

174-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

175-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

176-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

177-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

178-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

179-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

180-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

181-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

182-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

183-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

184-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

185-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

186-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

187-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

188-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

189-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

190-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

191-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

192-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

193-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

194-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

195-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

196-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

197-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

198-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

199-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

200-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

201-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

202-Abbay's First (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

203-Reno (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

204-Ariel Song (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

205-Winged Pharah (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

206-Beauzard (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

207-Timoli (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

208-Jab Me (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

209-Ace (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

210-Best Bid (D. Boston) 1:59.2-5

JOE PALOOKA

MICKEY FINN

PENNY

MARY WORTH

WINNIE WINKLE

SUPERMAN

DOTTY

THE DISTRICT LINE
by W. E. G.

TOKENS

Here's a new way to help Children's Hospital—but I'm afraid it calls for more talent than most of us can boast. Beatrice Buckley, of Barton Hall, went back to work for the Treasury Department when she got out of the WAC. During her spare time, she studied painting at Corcoran Art School, and turned out some pretty good pieces.

To help the Children's Hospital, she decided to offer one of her paintings in a raffle, and her colleagues in the Accounting Division responded enthusiastically.

A total of $52.35 was raised, and turned over to the hospital—and this department wishes to acknowledge Miss Buckley's fine gesture.

Most of us aren't very handy with paints and canvas, but we're handy enough with pen and ink to address an envelope to Children's Hospital, and enclose our invalidated streetcar tokens in it.

POEM

Peggy Crowley Masheter, of 1836 Calvert st. n.w., wrote a poem for us, and then was tempted to throw it away. But she says, "I inherited a great deal of daring from my Irish forefathers, so I'm sending it in."

TIME WAS
Time was, when I was young,
Each thing revealed a newness all its own
To break my heart, the wonder of it all;
Spring blades of grass—white lilacs newly bloom.

The old rock wall, the ivy on the stones
The scent of pines, the pool—
it's glittering calm;
The fleet, rare sweetness of it all comes back
My mother's voice—childhood's eternal charm.

4-IN-1 BARGAIN

If you're looking for a big afternoon of fun, don't miss the Children's Theater show at the Roosevelt High School Auditorium this Saturday at 2:30 p. m.

Kids from the Hearst, Twin Oaks, Janney and Powell playgrounds will vie in the presentation of four one-act plays. Three of them are comedies which promise to keep the house in an uproar.

The children themselves are putting on the four shows. No professional talent will be used. Tickets are 30 cents and 60 cents (Snow Concert Bureau) and the money goes to the District of Columbia Recreation Department—in other words, back to the kids.

COMPLAINT DEPT.

D. Jefferson Allen of 1615 New Hampshire ave. n.w. reports that a bus driver on the 12 line is another of those characters who

The Bridge Deck

By Florence Osborn
B. Jay Becker and Peter Leventritt touched only the right cards when they defended today's deal at the life masters' individual championships. B. Jay calls the hand an example of perfect coordinated defense. The two life masters won a fine score by setting South's two-no-trump contract three tricks, although declarer could have saved one trick by discarding more wisely at the end.

North's one-diamond response was made, no doubt, for purposes of higher strategy which we have been unable to interpret. Here is how the play went:

West opened his fourth-best diamond, small was played from the board and East's king went to South's ace. Declarer led a low heart and finessed North's nine; Mr. Leventritt won the queen and returned a low spade, South's jack falling to Mr. Becker's queen. West sent back the nine of diamonds, which was covered by the 10, Jack and South's queen.

Declarer again tried a small-heart lead, but East won dummy's jack with the ace and returned the 10 of spades, enabling his partner to capture declarer's king with the ace. Mr. Becker now cashed his two high diamonds, and when declarer foolishly discarded a spade West ran his nine and four of spades to complete the three-trick set.

At two no trump South lost two hearts, four spades and two diamonds.

Today's Hand
Neither Side Vulnerable
SOUTH DEALER
♠ 62
♥ J93
♦ 1052
♣ KQ853

BRIDGE
♠ A994
♥ 1084
♦ 9864
♣ J7

WEST
♠ KJ83
♥ K755
♦ AQT
♣ A2

THE BIDDING:
South West North East
1♣ Pass 1♣ Pass
1♥ Pass 2♣ Pass
2NT Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: 4♣.

championships. B. Jay calls the hand an example of perfect coordinated defense. The two life masters won a fine score by setting South's two-no-trump contract three tricks, although declarer could have saved one trick by discarding more wisely at the end.

North's one-diamond response was made, no doubt, for purposes of higher strategy which we have been unable to interpret. Here is how the play went:

West opened his fourth-best diamond, small was played from the board and East's king went to South's ace. Declarer led a low heart and finessed North's nine; Mr. Leventritt won the queen and returned a low spade, South's jack falling to Mr. Becker's queen. West sent back the nine of diamonds, which was covered by the 10, Jack and South's queen.

Declarer again tried a small-heart lead, but East won dummy's jack with the ace and returned the 10 of spades, enabling his partner to capture declarer's king with the ace. Mr. Becker now cashed his two high diamonds, and when declarer foolishly discarded a spade West ran his nine and four of spades to complete the three-trick set.

At two no trump South lost two hearts, four spades and two diamonds.

likes to make life miserable for his passengers. (Like the guy who gave rise to the revolt reported here recently.) Allen's ire moves him to poetry, and after citing instances of surly behavior, the poem ends: Upon this jerk's job I have no design;

But here is his number—
It's blank blank blank nine.
(The blanks are mine—and if our misanthropic driver doesn't reform, we'll fill in the missing digits.)

WONDER Y?

John W. Willis, of 1728 Massachusetts ave. n.w., raises a question that has long mystified me, too. He wants to know why Q st. is often written "Que."
He's not quarreling about I st., which is normally spelled

"Eye" to avoid confusion between a capital "I" and the numeral "1."
But why "Que"? John says if we're going to spell out Q st., we might as well go whole hog and use Bee, Sea, Gee, Aitch, Kay, Pee, Tea, and You st.

WISE GUY

My trusty telephone brings me all sorts of strange calls, but one that I got yesterday stands out head and shoulders above the others. The voice at the other end snarped:

"Are you the guy who writes The District Line?"
"Yes," I replied. "I write The District Line."
"Why?" he demanded—and I'm still trying to think of an answer.

Grin and Bear It

"You'll love it, Junior—the man has drills and things that make the most blood-curdling sound effects you ever heard!"

Just Hearsay

"I feel so relaxed with him—he's so dull!"

Daily Crossword Puzzle

Solution to Yesterday's Puzzle

Wahoo and Steve Roper

Dixie Dugan

Donald Duck

Myrtle

Ozark Ike

Mark Trail

King of the Royal Mounted

Today's Radio Programs

THURSDAY	WMAW	630	WRC	980	WOL	1260	WINX	1340	WWDC	1450	WTOP	1500
News, 6, 7, 8, 30	News, 6, 7, 8, 30	News, 6, 7, 8, 30	News, 6, 7, 8, 30	News, 6, 7, 8, 30	News, 6, 7, 8, 30	News, 6, 7, 8, 30	News, 6, 7, 8, 30	News, 6, 7, 8, 30	News, 6, 7, 8, 30	News, 6, 7, 8, 30	News, 6, 7, 8, 30	News, 6, 7, 8, 30
9	10	11	12	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
10	11	12	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	1
2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	1	2
3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	1	2	3
4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	1	2	3	4	5
6	7	8	9	10	11	12	1	2	3	4	5	6
7	8	9	10	11	12	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
10	11	12	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12

TODAY'S RADIO HIGHLIGHTS

Mr. Wendell Wilkie visits Betty Crocker show to advise American women how they can best serve their communities. WMAW—10:25 a. m.

Arthur Goeth begins a series of news-casts. WOL—11:00 a. m.

Self-Portrait Exhibition of the Artists' Co-operative is discussed. WQOW—11:00 a. m.

Del Russo, makeup expert, will discuss proper cosmetic application when he is guest on "Lunch at 1450." WWDC and WWDC-FM—12:15 p. m.

Primrose and Kapell play Brahms' Sonata No. 1, Benny Goodman and Nadia Boulanger play Brahms' Sonata No. 2. WQOW—4:00 p. m.

Jo Stafford. WRC—7:00 p. m.

Beryl Davis, English singer, visits Jack Smith. WTOP—7:15 p. m.

Virginia Bruce stars in "My Knight Comes Riding." WTOP—8:00 p. m.

Henry Wallace. WOL—8:30 p. m.

Senator Joseph Ball, Chester Bowles and Richard Gilbert discuss "How Can We Avoid an Economic Bust?" WMAW—8:30 p. m.

Edward Arnold visits Eddy Duchin and Eddie Foy. WRC—9:00 p. m.

Excerpts from Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" and the Rhine Journey and Fener.

at March from "Die Götterdämmerung." WINX and WINX-FM—9:05 p. m.

Carole Landis, Peter Lind Hayes, Tony Martin, Harry von Zell, Danny Thomas, Benny Goodman and Lyn Murray Chorus present another APL Entertainment Unions Committee broadcast. WMAW—10:00 p. m.

Robert Aida appears in "A Star for Helena," the story of how environment can determine a girl's future. WOL—10:00 p. m.

Lucille Ball is guest on "Reader's Digest." WTOP—10:00 p. m.

Murder, Mystery and Mayhem. WTOP—7:00, 7:30, 8:00, 8:30, 9:00, 9:30, 10:00 p. m. WOL—8:30 p. m.

7:00 a.m. Good Morning Music	11:00 a.m. A Woman's World	1:30 p.m. South American Music	4:55 p.m. News, Paul Martin
7:55 a.m. News, Ray Wilson	11:30 a.m. Sing Something Simple	1:45 p.m. Chapter-a-Day	5:00 p.m. Musicale
8:00 a.m. Mirages and Fates	11:45 a.m. Instrumentally Yours	2:00 p.m. Familiar Music	5:30 p.m. Calo Continental
8:55 a.m. News	12:00 p.m. News	2:30 p.m. Labor, 1947	5:55 p.m. News
9:00 a.m. Music Room	12:05 p.m. Three Corners Hat	2:45 p.m. Interlude: News	6:00 p.m. Pops Concert: News
9:30 a.m. Capitol Shopping Con.	1:00 p.m. News and Opinion	3:00 p.m. Speaking of Music	7:00 p.m. Evening Symphony
10:00 a.m. Piano Concerto	1:15 p.m. Folk Music	4:00 p.m. Chamber Music	8:00 p.m. Record Rock

WINX-FM 92.9 and 44.7
WINX-FM duplicates WINX programs between 9 a. m. and 11:15 p. m., except for "Dinner Concert" at 6:30 p. m.

WWDC-FM 100.9
WWDC-FM duplicates WWDC programs from 7:30 a. m. until 11 p. m., except for music at 8:35.

WASH-FM 98.9
WASH-FM operates from 2:42 to 11 p. m. News, 4:15, 7:45, 10:30, This Day, 5, British news, 6:45, 9, Children's story, 5:15, Outdoors, 7:30, Weather, 3:55, 7:55, 11, Music, 3, 4:30, 7, 8, 9, 9:45, 10, 10:45.

Portraits
By James J. Metcalfe

All that I have
I wish that I could offer you
I wish that I could offer you
The world with all its gold... And give you every happiness... That you could ever hold... But I am not so wealthy and... I have no special way... To fill your heart with ecstasy... Each moment of the day... My earthly goods are limited... And I can only do... A certain share of anything... To please and comfort you... But all the love I have is yours... And it will never die... And if you can ever change your mind... I shall not ask you why... I offer you forevermore... The best there is in me... If only you will let me share... Your living company.

Boys!

Win this swell Bicycle!

Or one of these other prizes:

- ★ Trip to New York
- ★ Record Player
- ★ Radio
- ★ Catcher's Mitt
- ★ Fielder's Glove
- ★ Baseball Shoes
- ★ Tennis Racquet

Get in on this grand opportunity now! Register as a Post junior representative and you become eligible for any of these prizes you choose to go after. It's easy—you bring in the required number of new Post subscriptions and the reward is yours. No money to collect. Phone National 4200, extension 230—or send the coupon.

Circulation Director
The Washington Post
Washington 4, D. C.

I'm interested in becoming a Post junior representative. I want to win a.....

Name.....

Address.....

Phone..... Apt.....

City..... State.....

And Nothing Can Be Done About It

AL TOLD ME A GOOD ONE TODAY, GET THIS, LILY, IT'S A CORKER.

SEEMS A DOWN AND OUT MAGICIAN WAS TRYING TO MAKE A TOUCH. I NEED THE MONEY," HE SAID.

"FOR TEN YEARS STRAIGHT I'VE BEEN SAWING A WOMAN IN HALF AND WITH MY LUCK, I ALWAYS END UP WITH THE HALF THAT EATS."

"THOSE MAGICIANS DON'T ACTUALLY SAW A WOMAN IN HALF. IT'S SOME KIND OF A TRICK WITH MIRRORS."

WISHING WELL

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

5	7	4	6	8	2	7	3	8	5	2	6	4
R	Y	A	G	M	O	A	O	A	S	2	6	4
T	S	3	5	1	9	7	8	6	5	1	9	7
U	O	N	P	D	S	U	R	E	V	T	I	C
2	3	7	8	4	6	2	5	7	3	8	7	1
Y	U	H	L	P	E	F	A	A	R	Y	N	N
7	8	5	2	6	7	8	6	4	3	7	8	5
C	T	O	T	E	L	C	O	T	R	S	8	5
5	7	3	8	6	2	7	6	5	1	9	7	8
H	I	H	O	A	S	M	Y	E	P	E	K	U
3	8	7	5	1	9	7	8	6	5	1	9	7
A	M	I	R	A	O	R	O	L	T	S	L	M
6	5	8	4	7	2	6	5	8	5	2	6	4
N	T	E	N	V	L	E	S	S	H	S	T	E

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Copyright 1947, by William J. Miller, Distributed by King Features, Inc., 3-421

Susie Q

"What made you decide to go to the movies all of a sudden?"

Mary Haworth's Mail

Veteran's Wife, 20, Provides Home for Him
By Her Efforts Since He Returned Year Ago;
He Loafs and Drinks Heavily on His Pension

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 20 years old and married to a veteran. He is a quiet person who depends on me too much. I am a secretary in town and our home is in the country. I have plenty of time to do my work at both places.

I have done my best to make us a home and I have done most of it. I have paid our bills and household expenses since last summer, even items like the insurance on our car. Of course I drive the car, too, but he receives $80 a month from the government—whether or not he works—and I think he should help with expenses.

He didn't drink when he went into the Army but now he drinks excessively. I've tried to ignore that fact and get along as well as possible. At first I thought it was his nerves that made him drink, but because he saw so much of war. But other veterans have settled down; and he could too, if he would try. It seems he doesn't want to.

They point to part of the reason why he's become an alcoholic. He's a mama's boy in revolt against mama.

He drinks to drown his furtively nagging sense of guilt in defying her; also to give himself a sense of courage to try to "make like a man" in his own right, without her all-ways to the fore, running possessive protective circles around him.

The possessive "mom" sets out to hold her boy as her courtier for life by these techniques: 1. By assiduously plying him from earliest days with the notion that he is guilty of a sin against God, society and sacred motherhood if he doesn't make her wish his law.

2. By being overly solicitous about his every move in the direction of the larger world or social relationships outside the home, thus indoctrinating him with her ideas that nameless dangers lurk outside the range of her apron strings; and thus also acting out to her satisfaction her jealous conviction that nobody loves him as mama does—nor ever will. An idea that sinks into his subconscious, too.

What Mom Does

To Her Victim

GIVEN this type of rearing, a lad can't win. At best—if strongly endowed with a natural male drive toward rugged individuality—he's going to be a split personality, more or less, when he reaches an age to shove off. The person he might have been is already lost in the wreck his mother has made of his powers of initiative.

At worst, he will have become a passive complete neurotic; and possibly his emotions will have been twisted into an incipiently homosexual pattern, due to being "so close" to mom and getting no chance to be true to himself in formative years.

You married a victim of such rearing, I think; and front-line war experience would play havoc with a personality already so damaged. He would be doubly susceptible to alcoholic addiction in such circumstances, if he fell into company that led him to take a series of drinks. That's what happened, I suppose.

So he's back—an alcoholic, guilty at outs with his mother for cumulative reasons and preying on you as her substitute, now that he's lolling in the pit she dug for him. Since he won't earn, stays out all night and fails to help with household expenses, you've been extravagantly patient in stringing along thus far. You'd be as weak as he, in a different way, to let things drift. Have a showdown and if he won't reform, wash your hands of him.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Post.

Ripe Olive Garnish

Any vegetable or fruit salad becomes more dressed up and more delicious to eat when it is garnished with whole ripe olives. Use them just as they come from the can or jar or roll them in oil to keep their shine.

Of course I send NORCROSS cards

NORCROSS
AMERICA'S BEST-LOVED
GREETING CARDS

Be Smart

FOR A DREAMLIKE QUALITY in a home or garden wedding, nothing is more beautiful than the sheerest organza, trimmed with fine eyelet embroidery or lace... made with the traditional bouffant skirt, of course. For the right foundation... a slip of tulle.

Warm Weather Treat

Scoop out garden-ripe tomatoes and refill them with a mixture of cream cheese cubes, raisins, diced green pepper and the tomato centers cut into cubes, tossed together lightly with French dressing. Serve for warm weather luncheons.

A Correct Glove Wardrobe

A glove wardrobe is a must for every bride. Glove manufacturers believe a spring or summer bride should own a pair of light chambray gloves for daytime; beige, navy or black capekin for street wear, a lightweight doekin or fine capekin for dress.

Every girl should have at least one pair of white capekin or doekin for more formal wear. It is correct to wear either popular shorties or six-button or eight-button length gloves on such occasions.

Several pairs of white cotton gloves for summer dresses are essential. They should be laundered after each wearing to keep them always fresh looking. Other smart gloves in subtle pastels or bright shades of red, blue and green are available and provide a pickup for dark costumes.

Buying Cauliflower

For fine quality cauliflower, look for a white or creamy-white clean, heavy, firm compact curd. The jacket or outer leaves should be fresh, turgid and green.

Bait for Bachelors!

Snacks made with CLUB CRACKERS by KEEBLER

not too sweet not too tart
... just too good for words

Crosse & Blackwell
Orange Marmalade
WITH THE FAMOUS ALL RED LABEL

Girl Scouts Edit First Edition Of Potpourri

The first edition of Potpourri, a 32-page illustrated magazine written and edited by Washington Girl Scouts, will be off the presses this week.

Maryalice Waid, editor-in-chief, is assisted by the following staff members: Mary Miller, Betty Anne Eilers, Lucile Ovendan, Beverly Walker, Carolyn Greer, Marjorie Hall, Millicent Sigler, Mary Rogers, Joyce Freedman, Barbara Strope, Wildred Wiebe, Aloise McKillips, Mary Quisenberry, Dot Inglee, Katherine Gerhard, Margaret Brooks, Pat Parkman, Mary F. Trager and Marilyn Connor. Mrs. Maurice Markman, publications chairman of the Washington Public Relations Committee, assisted the staff. The girls hope to make Potpourri an annual publication.

Hello! Breyers Calling!

Perk up your family meals with nourishing Breyers Ice Cream

Swears Reform;

Then Relapses

HE HAS been home for more than a year and I had thought he would be straightened out by now, but he hasn't done much toward it. He says he loves me, and he is good to me when sober, but I can't bear his drinking. Once when he was drinking he left home and stayed away all night. I moved to town, but he came to me and promised faithfully he wouldn't do it again if I'd come home. I went, but it has happened twice since then.

I would like very much to save my marriage as I love my husband very much. I have never believed in divorce unless it is absolutely necessary, but sometimes I think there is nothing left but divorce for us. My mother and his never wanted us to live together and they have caused us a lot of trouble, but we've tried to stay away from them. I am greatly worried and need unprejudiced advice.

A 'Mom' Victim

In Mid Course

DEAR S. R.: I can see why your mother would object to your wasting youth, money and strength on this man. As for his mother's objection to the alliance, I think due to motion sickness, the stomach is irritated with...

NAUSEA
MOTHERS' SEASICK REMEDY

Do you suffer MONTHLY FEMALE PAIN?
This great medicine is famous to relieve pain, nervous distress and weak, crampy, "dragged out" feelings of such days—when due to female functional monthly disturbances. Also fine stomachic tonic!
LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

YOU GET More WITH Mercury SERVICE

Remember—
For Real Mercury Service Always See Your Mercury Dealer

MORE FRIENDLY INTEREST
With us, it's not "just another car"—but another valued customer. When you leave your car for Mercury Service, you're sure it will be serviced right—and be ready on time!

MORE EXPERIENCED SKILL
Our Mercury-skilled mechanics, using the most modern precision equipment, do your work better, faster. You get satisfaction assurance when you get Mercury Service.

MORE LONG-RUN ECONOMY
Mercury Service is economical, too—just compare our established prices with any shop in town. Always get Mercury Service—the kind of service that makes friends and keeps them!

MAYFLOWER MOTORS, INC.
1125 15th Street N.W.
Washington, D. C.
REpublic 0303

GRADY MOTORS, INC.
4930 Hampden Lane
Bethesda, Maryland
WISconsin 7400

IT'S OUR WAY OF MAKING FRIENDS!

Almond Paste is very scarce, as you already know. The only place you'll find it is in specialty stores that deal in fancy groceries. I am told there is such a store in Georgetown which usually has it.

I have a narrow gold kid belt that has become a bit darkened and tarnished. Is there a way to renew the finish?
H. L. N.

I know of no home method for refinishing a gold colored belt. A leather goods store might be able to help you, but my guess is that the cost would make it more practical to buy another belt.

Doubly Delightful

By Anne Adams
Here it is! A double-duty beauty for sun-time and all the time! Pattern 4585 suits you with a smart sunrock and matching cape-sleeved jacket. Easy embroidery transfer. This pattern, easy to use, simple to sew, is tested for fit. Includes complete illustrated instructions. Pattern 4585 sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32. Size 16 dress, 29 1/2 yds. 39-in.; jacket, 1 1/2 yds.
Send 25 cents in coins for this pattern to The Washington Post, 131 Pattern Dept., 243 West 17th St., New York 11, N. Y. Print plainly, name, address, style number.

IT'S HERE! Hollywood BREAD PREMIERE

PRESENTING! Hollywood Bread
Known from Coast-to-Coast as the Perfect Flavor Contribution to LOW-CALORIE MENUS. Discover the goodness of thinly sliced bread in your WHOLE, nutritious soups, sandwiches and meat. Now, you, too, can enjoy the excellent combination of HOLLYWOOD BREAD'S exclusive blend of NUTRITIOUS ingredients.

MARIA MONTEZ
OF UNIVERSAL-INTERNATIONAL

THERE IS ONLY ONE Hollywood BREAD
No other has the patented blend of eight water-free VEGETABLE flours added to seven, wholesome and nutritious flours. HOLLYWOOD BREAD is baked without shortening and NO FATS are added.

For Extra Flavor in your SLENDERIZING menus, always include Hollywood BREAD
FREE! Send for new Diet and Calorie booklet, "The Hollywood Way to Stay Slender," to Eleanor Day, Box 1027, Hollywood, Cal.

Hollywood BREAD
NO SHORTENING used in baking

Hollywood Bread's exclusive formula includes Natural Vitamin B₁ and B₂, minerals, protein, niacin, iron, calcium and phosphorus, to help balance the basic nutritional requirements.

BAKED FOR YOU EXCLUSIVELY BY SCHNEIDER'S DANDEE BAKERS
THE CHARLES SCHNEIDER BAKING CO.—WASHINGTON